LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Radio Reception:

Some New Points

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Reasons for spotty short-wave reception (even though ranging from a "special" Providence in New Jersey to a "reduction in time-transit effect") are far from exhausted. The twin illusions—large number of tubes, and new constructional principles—both contain a germ of truth. All other things being equal a good 20-tube set ought to outperform a 10-tube set by the same manufacturer, and sets with 30 tubes—every one useful—are on the market.

Recent advances in tube design have no doubt improved reception, especially on the shortest waves. Yet none of these advances has had a decisive effect, and the radioman constantly sees four-year-old sets outperforming certain of the latest products of the same manufacturer.

One factor not always given enough consideration is that of variation in individual receivers. A radio consists of hundreds of parts joined together with sometimes thousands of connections. With such a complicated apparatus absolute standardization cannot be obtained. By a series of coincidences, a set may be turned out which falls much closer to perfection than the average, or the opposite may happen. Usually nothing can be done about such sets, except to enjoy them, or get rid of them, as the case may be.

More important than "new constructional principles" is the effect of age on the individual receiver. The invisible radio currents subject the components to very real stress and strain, and the climate has a bad effect on conducting surfaces. Thus a set deteriorates imperceptibly over a long period of time, and a new receiver may outperform one four or five years old, even though the constructional principles be identical.

The psychological factor should not be underestimated. For example, your correspondent FLIPPIE receives "as perfectly as one could desire" in spite of the fact that he "is losing part of" the concert to which he is listening at the time of writing. Some listeners wish to receive one hundred per cent. of all programmes, and would be far from satisfied with such reception. Others are content with hearing two or three of the stronger stations, and never try for anything more.

The behaviour of radio waves in space is without question the decisive factor in long distance reception. Radio waves do behave in a peculiar manner. They may induce a perfect signal in one antenna and none whatever in another apparently similarly situated. Some of their eccentricities can be explained and even used—as in the special case of WLW, whose waves are caused to jump over the city of Toronto, to avoid blanketing local stations, and come down to earth again some hundred miles further away. Many of these peculiarities are still unknown and uncontrollable. The type of soil, presence of watercourses, shorelines, telephone or other wires, shading effects of trees, buildings etc., all may influence the strength of signal in any one place. Other things apparently happen to the waves high up in pace, causing the signal received on two antennas only a few feet apart to vary greatly and non-uniformly. This fact is used by commercial telegraph and telephone companies in what is known as "dual diversity" reception in which two separate receivers on antennas a short distance apart are used, the signals being mixed in the output and heard from a single loudspeaker.

Other factors include the "noise level" or disturbances from locally operated electrical devices (usually well understood), the suitability of the antenna to the particular receiver with which it is used, position of antenna, varying line voltages, etc. The listener can do nothing about some of these things—in the case of others a little experimenting may result in worthwhile improvement.

Water for Refugees:

What 2 Hundred Dollars Did

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—May I use the columns of your paper to report some of my investigations into the water situation among refugees? In my letter entitled "A Cup of Cold Water," the plea was not meant to be taken literally as a plea for cold water. The term was used with the intention of reminding Christians of a certain Galilean's words as to a cup of cold water given in His name.

As we would expect, the Salvation Army has handled the problem of water for the refugees in their camp in a manner to command admiration. "Boiling water is to a Chinese what whiskey is to a Scotchman," said Brigadier Morris. "Rice and boiling water are the two essentials for refugees. Given those two things, they will survive." There was no doubt that they were surviving! As we entered the gate, opposite to 555 Route de Sieyes (around the corner from the Community Church), at 8 a.m. yesterday morning, we met 900 healthy and moderately clean youngsters marching off to school. Proceeding to the boiling water stove, we saw a long line, each with his bucket. The size of the bucket made no difference, as the dipper used gave the same amount of water to each one. Three times a day this boiling water stove is going full blast, and the people get their ration of boiling water as they get their ration of rice. We might have left this camp joyously elated, but we did not. Here was a camp with spacious grounds, clean kitchen, splendid water arrangements, a mat shed infirmary and clinic, ample living quarters, and only used to a little more than half of its capacity! Equipment that would care for 7,500, and only 4,500 in the camp! Lying close by was land that would accommodate 10,000 more. Memories of the pathetic plight of refugees who live in the street or, worse still, who live in the dark, dank buildings on Shansi Road, and in other portions of the Central District, came to mind. "Why don't you bring those poor folk here?" we inquired. "Because the French Municipal Council decrees that no more refugees are to be allowed," was the reply. A Municipal Council has a duty to protect its people from a large influx of undesirables, but to the lay mind it is incomprehensible that an equipment already set up and going should be allowed to lie unused while tens of thousands rot in the dark, dank buildings in the Central District! Surely, some adjustment should be worked out between the authorities of the two districts!

"Some of the old women in those Central District camps haven't seen the sun since last August," remarked the Brigadier. Perhaps some of the babies have never seen the sun, we thought. And here are wide open spaces, and sunshine, and food and water! Night in those buildings in the Central District must be a carnival time for rats and roaches. Water seems a matter of minor importance when sunlight and room to move about is denied, but even here it is a problem. A Red Cross Visitor writes: "How do you think the people in one building get their water? From the waste pipe of a hotel, by removing a stone or so around the drain pipe!"

One of the first gifts to come in to the Red Cross marked especially for water was a gift of $200 from a lady. I was shown the camp to which this gift brought piped water. Seven shiny new taps were counted, and as we walked the length of the camp to count them, we saw a long rice line in the sun. They would be thirsty by the time they got their rice, we thought, and although the water was not yet turned on (May 31), it was to be turned on "today," the manager said. It was a comforting thought.

Another camp visited was opposite 311 Yu Yuen Road, behind Little Florist. A well-run camp, apparently: clean, accommodating 844 persons. By the kitchen stood the water wagon that brings water for cooking from the Fire Brigade. We were shown that pipes had been laid, and we were told that as they were outside the Settlement, it would take $400 or more to connect the water. "Meantime, what do the people do for drinking water?" The manager's face registered astonishment. "Why, they can go out and buy hot water. Over a hundred people in his camp have work." It is good to know they are so prosperous, but looking around at the children, we doubted that anyone had enough water to drink. The plight of mothers with small babies was one that stirred our sympathies.

The Red Cross has been hard at work making a survey of those camps without a supply of water. The Rev. A. E. Small, successor to Mr. Crawford of the Red Cross Food and Shelter Committee, is attacking the problem with energy. We shall hope soon to have a report from him as to how the money contributed for this purpose is being used. Today, we happen to know that he is working on the problem of getting water containers to camps that have nothing to put the water in if it is brought to them!

And a Reader's Agreement

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—In your issue of yesterday I noticed a glaring advertisement reading:

> Japanese Army is fighting three wars at the same time
> (1) To establish a military dictatorship in Japan.
> (2) To destroy Chinese national Life and convert China into a colony.
> (3) To drive Americans and Europeans and their interests out of Asia.

Being highly impressed an depressed with the advertisement may I inform your advertiser that without having to read any especial or sensational stories I firmly believe his advertising story and beg to confirm that:

(1) Your advertiser is quite correct. A military dictatorship is already an accomplished fact in Japan.
(2) Your advertiser is more than correct. The process of subjugating China is already glaringly visible to all except to the statesmen of China and the Chinese people.
(3) Your advertiser is immaculately correct that Japan will drive us all out of Asia, but I regret your advertiser forgot to tell us that the job of eliminating us is how an easy one for the Japanese because one-half of all our interests have already been driven out by the Nationalist Government of Nanking during the past decade. The other one-half is now left by the same Government to be driven out by the Japanese while the Nationalist Government, now in Hankow, is occupied in self-elimination, self-destruction and self-extinction with a little spare time very partially to eliminate a few more foreign interests.

I have only one regret, that despite the repeated advice and warning charmingly and affectionately tendered to us by our gloriously intellectual friend Mr. J. O. P. Bland this Settlement was allowed to be used as a stamping ground for wild asses the disastrous result of which is clearly seen in the Eastern and Northern Districts.

What we need today is not pound sterling nor gold Dollar stories, but decisive action by another gang of bombastic wild asses, a few thousand miles away from Shanghai who, over a decade ago, put up a Political stunt called "Protection of Weak and Small Nations." It is now time for this gang of wild asses to take action to put their doctrine in high speed working order and stop playing the unblushing game of the ostrich. I must declare I am not British, but of Southern European nationality.

"Prepossessing":

The Meaning of the Word

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—With regard to "Hester's" remarks in your Woman's Page last week, on the iniquity of a local firm having the temerity to advertise for a lady secretary who must be of prepossessing appearance, I find on reference to Chamber's Dictionary the following meaning for the offending word:

> Imbue, inspire (person with notion, feeling, etc.) (of idea, etc.): prejudice, usually favourably.

I must admit, however, that my copy of the Dictionary was issued in 1920.

Keeping Up The Style

Peitaiho Conditions:

Japanese Officials Praised

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Will you please allow me some of the valuable space in your correspondence columns just to give credit where credit is due.

About two weeks ago I received a letter from Shanghai from some friends who were coming here for the holiday season, and they were worried stiff concerning the awful treatment which they expected at the hands of the Japanese and Customs officials on their arrival at Chinwangtao.

They had heard that all visitors were subject to all kinds of harsh treatment, and inconveniences. With this in mind I decided to go to Chinwangtao on the arrival of the ss. Kaiping on May 25 and meet my friends and any others who might be coming up here.

To make a long story short, no one could have wished for better treatment, politeness, and courtesy. The Customs officers very politely asked the passengers to open a box here and there and apart from just lifting up a few garments at one corner did not disarrange anything, and the examination lasted but a few minutes.

They then informed us that the Japanese would be the next to interview us, and would also like to look things over. This last statement put the tin hat on things for the good ladies had still in mind the awful and exaggerated things they had heard in Shanghai. These good ladies had a great set back, for they found the two Japanese Passport officers of the finest type of gentlemen. They even went one better than the Customs officials for they did not as much as look at the outside of the boxes and trunks, much less the inside.

What really happened was. I approached each party as they arrived and treated them as gentlemen and the result was that I and my friends were treated in exactly the same way. In other words, do unto others as you would have them do unto you. I doubt very much if there is anyone in Shanghai who has had as much to do with Customs officials at the examination sheds as I have during the 30 odd years, that I have waited on friends and British army officers and N.C.O's. who have come out to the S.V.C., and not on one occasion did I have any trouble with them.

As for Japanese people of all classes, my experience has been even better, if that was possible. I can honestly say that during the 1932 trouble I was permitted to go and see things and places where very high and dignified other persons were not even permitted to look around the corner.

I can recall a little story where a certain private in the S.V.C. asked me to get him home for a few minutes to look over his place. The Corps Sergeant-Major who was standing by at the time said, "What a hope you have. The Colonel and the remainder of us were turned back less than half-an-hour ago." I made him a bet, and within forty-five minutes we were in the man's house. Why such different treatment? I leave it to you.

Turning back to the passengers on the Kaiping. I have doubt that they have by this time written to their husbands, and I feel sure have told them of their trip, etc. Perhaps they would like to bear out my statement.

French Tram Tickets:

A Question of Convenience

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—I would like to point out a difficulty connected with the buying of season tickets for the French Tramways.

As it is well understood, these season tickets are generally bought by office employees residing in the French Concession and going to work in the down-town district. They are always busy from 9 to noon and from 2 to 5 p.m., and these are exactly the hours when the season ticket office is open. It is not always possible for everyone to ask somebody to buy the ticket for him.

Would it not be more reasonable to keep the season ticket office open, say until 6 p.m., and also, not at the very end of Avenue Dubail, but somewhere near the centre.

I do sincerely hope that my appeal will reach the hearing of the authorities whom it concerns.

Police Protection:

Edinburgh/Yu Yuen Roads

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—The recent armed robberies near the corner of Yu Yuen and Edinburgh Roads, followed by the snatching of a foreign lady's bag in Yu Yuen Road in broad daylight, and attempted burglaries of foreign houses in Edinburgh Road, clearly shows the lack of Settlement police protection in this locality and I, in common with other residents, feel that something more should be done in this connection in view of our payment of Settlement rates.

I take daily walks along the roads in question both before and after dinner and it is very seldom indeed that I see a Settlement policeman. Indeed, the two Chinese Settlement police who were formerly stationed near the corner of the two roads have recently left for presumably more important duties, leaving only the solitary Tao Tah policeman who evidently has to go home at sunset.

Will the police department please see what they can do?

Daughter of Afghan Ex-King Weds

Rome, June 6.

In the presence of the Italian King and Queen, Princess Abedah, daughter of ex-King Amanoullah of Afghanistan, married Prince Ahmed Ali today. Afghan rites were observed at the villa of the former sovereign, where Princess Maria of Savoy, eldest daughter of King Victor Emmanuel III, was also present. The civil marriage was later contracted in the Capitol.

The Princess Abedah is the third child of ex-King Amanoullah, who reigned in his mountainous land from 1919 to 1929 when he was forced to flee. His sweeping reforms were not favoured by the religions powers of the country who eventually inspired the rebellion that forced his flight.—Havas.

Sixty Years Ago

FROM THE "NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS," OF JUNE 8, 1878

From Manila: The weather had been intensely warm up to May 18, in Manila, and there was a general cry for water in consequence of the absence of rain. Several water-courses were already dry. The temperature is described as unbearable. The "Diario" says that "large numbers of dead fish were seen floating in the river on May 12. This occurence has taken place before, when the heat was as intense as in the present year." But at last, the first shower of the season came on the 19th, and it rained for several hours, accompanied by thunder. A letter from Iloilo, dated May 14, says that there are several cases of fever amongst the people, some of which are of a typhoid character. The heat is horrible. It is also stated that the Governor of the village of Duenas had been murdered. Two individuals went to his residence and handed him a false despatch, and he, while perusing its contents, was brutally stabbed to death, and the body was thrown into the street. The police and the inhabitants soon surrounded the house with the view of capturing the murderers, but they thereupon fired upon those in the streets, with a gun and a revolver which they found in the house, wounding five or six, but at last they were killed in the combat. It is reported, from Davao that locusts again visited that district, and the drought has continued in consequence of which disease has appeared in the form of dysentery and intermittent fever.

ITALY, Australia, New Zealand, and Cuba have already accepted invitations to send exhibits to the International Exhibition to be held here in 1940, the Secretariat of the Fair announced in Tokyo yesterday.

Situation Easier Round Amoy

Japanese Consul-General Takes Over Office; Bund Shooting Confirmed

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

Amoy, May 28.

The Consul-General for Japan came to Amoy yesterday in the Hongkong Maru which moored alongside one of the pontoons fronting Messrs. Butterfield & Swire godown. At 1 p.m., with his staff and former Japanese Consular police, he crossed to the Lingtow Jetty at Kulangsu. The Indian police officers of Kulangsu were on the jetty and surrounding the Consulate waiting for their arrival. Capt. Bass, chief of police, and Mr. Olkhosky remained at the Consulate to formally hand over the building which had been left in charge of the Municipal Council during their eight months' absence.

The Chief of the Japanese Consular Police shook hands with all the Indian officers on the jetty and asked in the course of conversation how many Formosans had been arrested in Kulangsu by the Chinese authorities, taken to Amoy and shot; and whether the chief of the Kulangsu detective department still was a resident on the island. The Indians in reply to both questions stated that they did not know. The head of the Kulangsu detective department left Kulangsu two weeks ago. He requested leave to retire, but his request was refused by the Chief of Police. Thereupon, he took "French leave" and departed no one knows how or to where. He probably had an inkling that Kulangsu would not be a healthy place for him to stay in when the Japanese came back to it. The first thing that was done after the arrival of the Consular party was to connect the severed telephone cable to Amoy with the Consulate; the second to place machine guns on the road leading to the Consulate buildings.

Still a City of Mystery

Amoy is still a city of impenetrable mystery. A black dog looking for its master is the only movement of life that the long Bund shows. Smoke occasionally is seen issuing from the chimneys of the power station, but the city remains in darkness. Workers engaged at the power station are in Kulangsu and when asked if they destroyed the plant before leaving denied doing so. They said they left as usual at noon meal and when returning at 2 p.m. were told that the Japanese forces were close at hand.

They did not return to the electric station but crossed the harbour at once. Asked who could have destroyed the machinery, they said that Chinese soldiers might have done so but they did not know. That the station has been damaged is evident by the gloom that nightly hangs over the city, and the number of times smoke has been seen issuing from it.

Machine-Gunned on Bund

A probable inference is that Chinese soldiers were destroying it when the Japanese advance guard came on with their machine guns and caught them as they ran from the entrance and along the Bund endeavouring to escape. They did not escape, for the guns mowed them down as was seen by many in Kulangsu. This theory is all the more probable as the bodies washed up subsequently by the tide onto the beaches of the island and taken for burial were those of Chinese soldiers in uniform. Many soldiers' corpses were seen as they passed along but not the body of one civilian was observed among them.

The future of Kulangsu seems as much shrouded in mystery and gloom as that of Amoy. One can only wait and see what the Japanese Consular attitude will be. Weakness has hitherto been our strength. To the Japanese, however, weakness has been an invitation for aggression. If the Japanese contemplate turning Amoy into a naval base, then Kulangsu will become an important place and British and American rights must not be abandoned.

Refugee Situation Easier

The refugee situation is easier. Many families have returned to their homes on the mainland and still are returning daily. Thousands have left by every steamship for Hongkong until the Colony refuses to take any more. Free tickets were given to those who wished to return to Foochow by a Butterfield & Swire ship and more wanted to go than the vessel could accommodate. There are still over 50 refugee camps, however, with numbers in each ranging from 800 to 2,000. The Japanese Consul may give permission for some to return. But what can they do? As far as is known only the new concrete buildings remain in Amoy. All the old structures were destroyed by fire.

Kulangsu has two canning factories, respectively the Amoy Canning Factory and the Oriental Canning Factory. These were both approached to assist in the refugee emergency and without hesitation, the Amoy Canning Factory agreed to do all in its power to help. Many Singapore people have shares in the former. Its management, staff and chemists, are graduates from Amoy University. These young men rose magnificently to the occasion. "Give us rice" they said, "and we will supply the people with food."

These capable young men met, discussed, planned and acted and 60,000 meals were prepared for distribution among various refugee centres by the Amoy Canning Factory in the day. Forty thousand people were being fed from it; that is, the majority of the refugees on the island.

A recent rumour was in circulation in Kulangsu that the Singapore millionaire, Ah Boon-haw, had offered the Generalissimo 100 planes if Amoy were recaptured. To retake Amoy would be a stupendous task. Its loss was almost entirely due to the Japanese having complete dominance of the air. A gift like that, however, is better late than never and these planes will assist to recover, what China must recover if she is to win, the mastery of the air.

THE Anti-Epidemic Committee of the China Medical Society, located in Sinza Road, has decided on the site for an isolation hospital shortly to be opened under its auspices, states a report to the "Hwa Mei Chen Pao." The Committee, it is reported, will also send a representative, Dr. Wang Po-yuan, to Hongkong in connexion with its plan for the enlargement of the anti-epidemic campaign.

Hsuchow Fall Observed

Chinese Children Paid Three Cents to March In Peiping Parade; Enforced "Patriotism"

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

Peiping, May 22.

The people have duly celebrated the fall of Hsuchowfu to the Japanese, that is the Chinese have, along with their Japanese conquerors. It is little use that you are a Chinese and don't wish to celebrate. Hsuchow has fallen and must be celebrated.

Events were started off yesterday when a Japanese paper here hired eleven Chinese brass bands (one didn't know there were so many) and sent them out all day long playing martial airs in that way Chinese brass bands have of making even a waltz sound like a funeral march. Behind the bands marched members of the newspaper staff distributing leaflets of the usual kind, eulogizing the Japanese army, denouncing the Chinese Government and lauding the Hsuchow victory.

Today the students had to take up the banners. They were instructed that they must attend a mass meeting and then parade the streets with flags or else their parents would be looked on as reactionaries. When Nanking fell the same thing took place but then the children were told that if they didn't go on parade their parents would be reckoned as Communists.

Students Hear Harangues

So to the mass meeting hundreds upon hundreds of primary and middle school students went. Chief among the speakers were members of the Provisional Government and the students had to listen to political harangues of which they probably understood nothing. No visitor from other parts of the world would have dreamed that these Chinese were celebrating a Japanese victory which involved the deaths of not only Chinese soldiers but of many innocent Chinese civilians as well.

The price of the victory was seen today when foreign correspondents were flown over the battlefield—hundreds of villages bombed to pieces and many still smoking, not a living thing to be seen for miles except Japanese; all the Chinese civilians fled or dead.

Following the mass meeting speeches the students started off in long crocodiles all over the city, waving the flags they had been given and looking as if they wished someone would tell them what it was all about. A generous municipal government had announced that their wants would be provided for and that they would be given money for food on the march.

Tired and Weary

Money they were given, three cents each child, and after spending it all no doubt they went home for something to eat. Tired and weary they looked after tramping miles through the streets in which a lucky rain had happily laid the famous Peiping dust. Today they all had a holiday and no doubt needed it.

Apart from these celebrations the municipality held its own at which the Mayor declared that the fall of Hsuchowfu had laid the foundations of lasting peace in eastern Asia. Naturally he did not develop this theory. The Legislative Commission of the Provisional Government held its own celebrations, the chairman, Dr. Tang Erh-ho erstwhile follower of the Kuomintang and one time colleague of Dr. Hu Shih, declaring that the fall of Hsuchowfu greatly brightened the future of the Provisional Government. Nothing about the people—first thought for the new organ that has given jobs to those who were "out" and now are again among the "ins".

As part of the celebrations parks were thrown open free to the public while cinemas and theatres sold tickets at half price. In the parks brightly coloured kimonos mingled with the sleek long gowns of the modern Chinese girl. Neither took much notice of the other, admiring the peonies and the weeping willows.

Most of these Chinese are good patriotic people who spend their days hoping for Chinese victories. Yet in parks and other public places where Japanese and Chinese freely mix no one landing here from abroad could imagine that they belonged to two peoples in the grip of war, perhaps the deadliest the Far East has ever known.

And while a munificent municipality was handing out three cents a child for food to celebrate the loss of one of their own cities the Provisional Government was appropriating $5,000 as funeral expenses for the late Tsao Kun, former President, who recently died unregretted and to whom his country owed little.

Rain Mars Whit-Sunday In Britain

King George, Princesses, Ride in Windsor Park

London, June 6.

Although today was not so fine in London as it was on Sunday, the Whitsun weather has generally been better this year than for many years and the week-end has been an open-air holiday for the great majority of the people.

The King and Queen spent the day at the Royal Lodge, Windsor, and this morning King George was out riding with the two princesses in Windsor Great Park.

Glasgow, however, was one of the places where rain fell continuously, marring the pleasure of crowds at Bellahouston Park for the Empire Exhibition and spoiling the effect of the state drive of the Lord Mayor of London through the streets of Glasgow to the Exhibition.

Despite the weather, large crowds lined the streets to see the historic state coaches of the Mayor and the sheriffs, which had been brought specially by train from London.—Wireless through Reuter.

Very Little Ningpo Shipping

Port Officially Closed to Shanghai Vessels But a Few Get Through

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

Ningpo, May 25.

Anxiety in regard to a possible Japanese invasion of Ningpo has largely abated, and residents who had taken temporary refuge in the surrounding villages are emboldened to return. Although there are signs of hardship among the poorer classes, yet other evidences indicate a slight improvement in local trade conditions.

Although the port is officially closed to Shanghai shipping, one or two boats lately have appeared from Haimen en route to Shanghai. These ships appear to have cargo and passengers from Haimen to Shanghai, but they are not permitted to take passengers from Ningpo. Permission to take outgoing cargo can be obtained with some difficulty. The Italian ship Enderta is at present in port with special permission to take outgoing cargo to Shanghai. It is rumoured that another ship from Shanghai is also on the way, under some special arrangement with the local authorities. Many people believe that normal shipping to Shanghai may shortly be resumed.

A small steamship leaves Ningpo daily, to and from Tinghai in the Chusan Islands. Presumably it is still possible for passengers and cargo to reach Shanghai by this route.

All bus roads out of Ningpo were torn up some months ago with the exception of the one road leading to the south of the Province through Kikow and Pehmao. The bus service on this road is now working at full pressure taking many passengers south to places as far Wenchow, and west to Kinhwa and beyond.

Wesley Day Celebrations

The Methodist churches in Ningpo and the district have had a very successful week-end in their services of commemoration of the 200th anniversary of John Wesley's conversion.

Plans for these celebrations had been exceptionally well arranged by a central committee in Ningpo, and by small committees in each of the seven circuits of the Ningpo Methodist District.

It is some gratification that in these days of terror and distress a witness to the truth of the Christian faith, and to the reality of Christian experience finds a greater response in a city like Ningpo than perhaps it has ever done before.

Alleged Murderer Executed

Influential People May Have Instigated Attack On Mr. Goldsworthy; Children Protected

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Kweiyang, Kwei., May 15.

The brutal murder of Mr. Goldsworthy of the English Methodist Mission at Shihmenkan in the Weining district of this province has been reported as the work of robbers and at least one has been executed; but it is doubtful whether there were not others, and they of influence, who instigated the attack on the property. For quite a time, efforts have been made to get control of the schools there but the missionaries refused to let them. Probably they did not plan the murder, but obviously those who make use of lawless men are to blame if plans are exceeded and life is taken. It is a weakness when any class in the community is able to act on its own without authority from the Government and apparently with immunity from the consequences of its action. Such things are not unknown in this province.

Three representatives of the Y.M.C.A. are at present in this city with a view to opening up the work in the near future. And I hear that the Y.W.C.A. may soon be opening up here too. Without doubt these organizations will reach many who are not easily reached by the churches.

Air-raid Precautions

Last year the authorities ordered that all frontages on the main streets should be coloured white; now, orders are that all shall be coloured black or grey; why last year's orders were issued is not clear, but this year's is in order to make it less easy for enemy planes to distinguish the houses; at least that is what is generally believed. The general effect is rather funereal. That is o little importance, however, if any good purpose is served. So far there has not been any cause for alarm, and every one goes about the day's work much as usual.

The Provincial Chairman, Mr. Wu, is energetic, for he has already visited several hsien cities to the east of the province and is now on his way to places in the west. Of course, it is only fair to former chairmen to say that the building of the motor roads in so many directions makes such travel easier and more expeditious than in the days when these roads did not exist. But the present Chairman shows his energy in various directions. He is doing what he can to encourage industry of different kinds, so all hope that Kweichow will benefit in days to come.

One result of the fear of enemy bombers coming is that school hours have been modified so that during hours when bombers might come, the children will be at home, not at school, thus minimizing the risks of their being bombed en masse, a wise plan, it seems.

It has been said by some who have the responsibility for building the motor road linking up Szechuen and Yunnan (from Chihshuiho to Weining, viâ Pichieh) that 50,000 men are required for the work, which probably already has been begun. When this section is finished and opened for traffic, it will have the advantage of offering an alternative and nearer route between the two provinces, but it will mean probably a diminution in the traffic between Chungking and Kweiyang.

AMONG the passengers who left London on May 20 in the ss. Naldera were—Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Mayger, Mrs. H. M. Gauntlett, Miss L. A. Busser, Rev. H. F. Wickings and Messrs. H. G. Banham, A. G. C. Buttfield, H. B. Faers and F. Holmes.

Crop Movements Along North River Ports

Much Produce Waiting to Be Shipped to Shanghai

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Singsengang, May 27.

With the partial occupation of the north-river districts of Kiangsu by the Japanese military, the movements of several Shanghai shipping lines between Shanghai and river ports have shifted from Tiensengang, near Tungchow, to places farther up the river. Enormous crops are unharvested and large quantities of pigs, cattle, chicken, eggs and vegetables await shipment, so that the regular service of the shipping companies is regarded as of inestimable value both to the population of Shanghai and to the farmers of northern Kiangsu.

Peaceful Countryside

The countryside is comparatively peaceful and only the larger cities are occupied by small Japanese garrisons. The wheat crops are better than for many years in the past. The problem confronting the farmers is the gathering of the harvest, as many of the country women are not at home and the military think of the standing grain as a hiding place and would like to keep it uncut.

As the grain ripens, however, and falls the value of the unreaped fields for military purposes will be nil. Without reaping the wheat, the next crops cannot be planted. Undoubtedly ways and means will be found by which this rich crop will be gathered in to enrich the farmer and provide food for Shanghai.

Refugees are plentiful, but the countryside is not yet greatly suffering from lack of foodstuffs. Most of the refugees have been taken in by other families or have moved to Shanghai and areas south of the river and with trade routes still open, goods can be sent back and forth.

Nantungchow Missionary's Work

Excellent refugee work is being carried out by two missionaries of the Christian Reformed Church at Jukao, where 800 people are taken care of and also at Nantungchow where Miss V. Mushrush has been all alone for several months. In fact, ever since the bombing of the Christian hospital there she has carried on self-sacrificingly a work of charity, nursing the sick and wounded. She was the only foreigner during all this time in Nantungchow.

Taichow, too, has rich crops ready for harvesting. The shifting refugee problem there also is causing concern, although several families are said to be returning to Japanese occupied areas.

Kuling Community Busy Doing Relief Work

International Committee To Care for 100 Orphans

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

Kuling, May 23.

The rainy season has certainly commenced at Kuling, with fairly heavy rains appearing about every second or third day throughout this month, but there are compensations, to see the mountain streams almost in flood, dashing over the rocks, and making waterfalls at hitherto dry places is a beautiful sight to behold.

This year we have also had a most wonderful season for nature lovers, the azaleas, hydrangeas and magnolias have been more prolific than for many years, also many other flowering shrubs, perhaps due to the late and heavy snow storm in March, when things were kept back so much, so that they developed more slowly.

Mission Buildings Utilized

The community has been very busy of late in the interests of peace and preservation. A war orphans committee has been formed of an international character to prepare for and look after about 100 war orphans who are expected shortly. Two buildings of the former Medical Mission have been put aside for their use, which are being simply furnished, water connected to the kitchens and electric light put in throughout. Also the ladies have been busy making garments and bedding.

In this connection it should be mentioned that a very successful Chinese women's conference has just been held—delegates came from all over China, specially to discuss problems of a social nature, the future work of women in China, relief problems and child welfare. The discussions were very practical and can be put in practice in the immediate future.

The fall of Hsuchow has had a rather depressing effect up here, but there is still no doubt felt about the safety of this place, as it is not fortified in any way, and the nearest military establishments are many miles away. The food supply seems to have improved somewhat, though some articles have increased in price. Local produce, however, is very cheap and one can get good supplies of milk and butter, as well as all necessary vegetables.

Beef of Poor Quality

Beef is 20 to 24 cents per lb., much cheaper than Shanghai but the quality is not quite so good. Pork 30 cents per lb. Fish is expensive as it has to be brought up from the lake or from Kiukiang at night time. On the whole one may say that cost of living has increased about 25 to 30 per cent. since the war started.

There are a number of French sailors here for a short holiday—they cannot be sent down river, so the next best thing is Kuling. They are coming up in relays of 50 or more, and at present are staying at the American School.

Dr. Tooker has just left for Shanghai to bring Mrs. Tooker and others back to Kuling; he seems to have no doubt about the wisdom of staying at Kuling for the summer, though the trip is rather roundabout and expensive. Probably a number of Missionaries from Central China will spend their vacation up here, but those further afield will probably not come this year. There are plenty of bungalows available at reduced prices.

Phillips LIVE YEAST

Indigestion and Stomach Troubles Ended Permanently

The remarkable results of Phillips Live Yeast in stomach and digestive troubles of all sorts are due to the fact that Live Yeast is essentially a regulator of the digestion. It not only stimulates the flow of the gastric juices, but actually breaks up the most indigestible elements in the food, so that they are rapidly assimilated instead of remaining to cause acidity and ulceration. If you have pain or discomfort after eating, or wind or that unpleasant "overfull" feeling, Phillips Live Yeast will soon end your troubles. If your digestion has been seriously weakened by neglect, make a practice of taking Phillips Pure Live Yeast regularly, for about three weeks in every month.

IMPARTIAL NOT NEUTRAL

HERITAGE OF HATE

One of the first pieces of news to meet the Shanghai journalist on reaching his office yesterday morning was the brief cable from Reuter to the effect that, at 5.55 a.m. that day, Canton had been awakened to the now familiar sound of the air-raid alarm. Despite the worldwide protests, despite diplomatic expression of horror, despite the loathing that this practice of the indiscriminate bombing must of necessity arouse, the Japanese command is apparently bent on meeting the civilian clamour of a few days ago for just this type of wholesale slaughter. During last week some thousands of Chinese civilians suffered death or mutilation because they happened to live in Canton, the port through which much of the military supplies for the Chinese Government have necessarily to pass. It has to be admitted once and for all that the definition of what may or may not amount to a military objective has been sufficiently widely drawn that it is difficult to see where differentiation stops. It would alarm most of the laity if they could glance at the average military textbook and find how little would escape bombing in the time of war. But the very fact that there has been these attempts at definition justifies the contention that the rights of the civilian have been considered as far as possible, and that even the most out and out militarist, whether of the ruthless school or not, realizes that there are certain things which should not be done, and the wanton bombing of the inoffensive civilian is certainly one of them. Judged by any standard the reckless bombing of Canton, a crowded city, is deplorable, and reflects most gravely upon those responsible for the issuance of the original order. There is no pleasure in writing these things, for the time was when the Japanese forces were held in the highest repute for the excellence of their behaviour and the high nobility of the motives inspiring the high command. It is a fact upon which many historians have commented so favourably, that the behaviour of the Japanese section of the Boxer Expedition for the relief of the Legations beleaguered in Peking was so exemplary that it transcended that of any other section. Less than four decades later this present lamentable spectacle is presented to the world.

The overture to the average Japanese communiqué dealing with such air-raids, that they have been directed against military objectives, means nothing in view of the fact that thousands of inoffensive people have been slaughtered, that in the streets of Canton, distances away from any military point, the blood of the innocent cries unavailingly to the skies. What appears to be the argument? It seems to be this—that Canton, a city with a circumference of some six miles, accommodating normally over a million souls, is surrounded by anti-aircraft batteries (it follows that it is a wicked animal for when it is attacked, it seeks to defend itself): within that perimeter there is a number of institutions, which by reason of their nature, are suitable objectives for the military action of Japanese aeroplanes. Those objectives, it is claimed are the targets at which the bombs are aimed, and if other people are killed or maimed, it is really very regrettable, but, after all they should not have been there. The world will not willingly accept such an appalling display of cynicism: it is apparent that it is already revolted by what has happened in Spain, what is now being inflicted upon Canton, and what may possibly even be visited on Hankow. Public opinion will not accept the theory that these thousands of casualties are the result of sheer mishap: the demand by various Japanese civilian bodies for wholesale bombing, coming so soon before the perpetration of this crime on Canton, will for ever be borne in mind. It will believe, and will be justified in doing so, that this new development of the air offensive against Canton is not dictated by purely military necessities but is inspired by a desire to strike terror into the hearts of the Chinese civilians and thereby bring about that surrender which practically a year's hostilities have failed to secure. And sheer terrorism does not work. It has not worked in Spain up to the present, where General Franco's aviators appear to be like a bunch of small children, irate at not getting their way quickly enough, and throwing all normal restraint to the wind.

What are the hostilities in China designed to bring about? The world has been assured times without number that Japan is earnestly desirous of securing the friendship of China, in order that the two countries may work together for the general peace of Asia and their mutual benefit. Whatever may have been early intentions—and they were probably truly stated until the resistance of the Chinese was shown to be what it is—the hostilities have been transformed from a campaign of undying affection to one of the most ruthless subjugation. The evils which the Japanese have wreaked and are wreaking upon this unfortunate country can form no basis for the establishment of any friendship whatsoever. It is creating a heritage of hate, the like of which has never been equalled by any of the diplomatic stupidities which have been perpetrated in Europe, and the Japanese are rapidly creating an atmosphere in which whatever military gains they may make, will have to be held for the future not through friendship—for how can friendship be formed on bases such as these?—but by sheer brute force. They will have to hold a proud race, burning with resentment, in subjection by bayonet strength. Can it be any wonder that the world sees in such a display as that afforded at Canton not the behaviour of a magnanimous victor, but that of an invader whose plans have gone sadly awry, a confession of frustration rather than a claim to victory? Need it be surprising if the Chinese Government sees in these things an incentive to further resistance? Mankind, it seems, will never learn. Frightfulness, brutality and all that is the worst in human activities have been employed in the struggles of nations since the world began, and who, will say it has ever achieved any permanent result? The bombing of civilians, the slaughter of women and the mutilation of children will not bring China to her knees. It is likely to reinforce the determination to resist, and if Japan really wants a very long war she is going about it in quite the correct manner, for, when hatred and resentment conquer dismay, the bitter end is the only objective to which to fight.

Hankow Prepares

The Chinese authorities have declared that the fall of Hsuchowfu and the withdrawal of Japanese troops along the Lunghai Railway do not necessarily connote a rapid advance on Hankow, but that city is taking all precautions to minimize difficulties should the Japanese capture the city, which is likely. Wholesale evacuation of Chinese has taken place during the week-end, one report stating that 500,000 people have left for places on the Upper Yangtze. As indicated in the cables, the foreign community has created concentration camps and obtained food supplies which should carry it through the emergency. Hankow newspapers, which reach Shanghai via Canton and Hongkong, reveal that the basis of the scheme is the Foreign Residents Association, formed by the Foreign Chambers of Commerce with the approval of the Consular Body, to provide for emergencies. The secretary is Mr. J. S. Blandford, of the A.P.C., formerly a Shanghai resident. A notification states:

The primary objects of the Association are to arrange, in the event of emergency:
(a) the concentration of the foreign community in the safest localities.
(b) the supply of essential raw foodstuffs to all foreigners participating in the Association's scheme.

To enable them to make the requisite arrangements it is necessary for the Association to have particulars of all members of the foreign community who wish to avail themselves of the facilities offered: to this end questionnaires have already been circulated among their respective nationals by the Consular Authorities and/or Chambers of Commerce concerned and the larger part of the foreign community is now registered with the Association.

Newcomers to the port and foreign residents without consular representation have been invited to participate in the scheme for, the notification warns: "Members of the foreign community who do not register with the Association cannot expect assistance therefrom in the event of emergency." Thus is foreign Hankow, following the tradition of self-help and precaution based on past incidents, preparing to face the prospect of Japanese occupation with the military consequences accompanying such an eventuality. Hankow's problem as a city situated in the heart of China, with no easy communications with the coast, presents unusual difficulties, but the spirit of the foreign communities does not brook defeatism.

NATURE NOTES

Today, June 6, a promise has been fulfilled. It was made late last October when aeroplanes were zooming overhead, artillery was barking and roaring to the north and west of us and ever and anon, the ground shook with the heavy detonation of bombs dropping on Chinese villages and farmsteads just beyond the railway line not over half a mile away. Things were at their blackest and there seemed no hope for any of us in Shanghai. It was then that the promise was made, a promise that all the horror and destruction should pass and be forgotten, and that the "scorched earth" of China should once more bring forth flowers and fruit in abundance. My wife and I were walking in our garden in the twilight of a nerve-racking day, trying to recover some of that serenity of soul which alone can see one through such period of crises as we all experienced last year. Suddenly I noticed a white patch shining through the gloaming, and, approaching to see what it was, discovered a magnificent gardenia bloom. Several weeks had passed since the shrub on which it grew had ceased blooming. It had no conceivable right to be there, yet there it was in all its white purity and loveliness, the most perfect blossom of its kind I had ever seen. With the boom of artillery and the rattle of machine-gun fire in my ears, it nevertheless seemed to promise that all would yet be well, that, just as it was there spreading its fragrance on the evening air, so would the fair land of China once more "blossom as the rose." Turning to my wife, I read the message of the beautiful waxy white flower, a message of hope to revive our waning courage and our belief in the eternal rightness of things and the ultimate triumph of good over evil. All through the days and weeks and months that have followed, that white blossom has shone like a star through the darkness of despair—a promise for the future. Today, on the very same shrub and at almost the identical spot, I found, as I walked in my garden in the cool of the morning, a glorious white gardenia bloom, the first of the season, and the exact counterpart of the bloom that appeared so late last October. It said, "My promise has been fulfilled; no matter how evil is man, no matter how horrible the scars he makes on the face of the earth, Mother Nature obliterates his evil deeds and covers up the scars he makes with verdure and sweetness. Again I promise, all will yet be well!"—A. DE C. S.

Scientist's Theory

ARE films bad for old men? This is a question which might never have occurred to anybody but for Dr. Van Staveren, a Holland scientist, who says:

"We hear a great deal of the ill-effects of certain films on children, but there are some which are not without danger to old gentlemen."

Without further information from the learned doctor one supposes we shall never know whether he means gangster films, films which over-emphasise sex, or British comics.

If he means gangster films, it seems improbable that they would influence old gentlemen to the extent of making them take suddenly to a life of crime, and if he means films which over-emphasise sex the sooner old gentlemen are barred from the cinemas the better for everybody.

It is much more likely that he means British comics.

Too much laughter when you are very old is bad for the heart.

Japanese Raid Canton Thrice in One Day

British Engineers Have Narrow Escape; Many Parts of City Now Evacuated by Civilians; Saichuen, Tungshan Districts Bombed

Canton, June 7.

THREE British engineers narrowly escaped with their lives in a Japanese air raid on Canton this afternoon, in which nine bombs fell in the compound of the Saichuen Waterworks, causing damage to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars. Canton City and Shameen were in total darkness tonight as the Saichuen Power Station, also badly damaged in the raid, was put out of action.

The engineers who had narrow escapes were employees of Messrs. Malcolm & Co., Ltd. They were supervising construction arrangements at the Waterworks, the building of which has not yet been completed. The raid this afternoon was the second carried out in Canton today, the city having been aroused at 5.55 this morning to the now familar sound of the air-raid alarm.

A few minutes afterwards, a Japanese aeroplane appeared over the city and dropped half a dozen bombs in the Tungshan District, and three or four more in the vicinity of Saichuen.

The raid lasted only ten minutes, and the situation subsequently was quiet up to the second visit of the Japanese raiders, apart from a fire in the Tungshan District, which had evidently been started by an incendiary bomb.

The afternoon raid began at 2.45 p.m., and this time the raiders strafed the vicinity of the City Government offices, also bombing the Canton-Hankow Railway north of Wongsha Station.

It was hoped that the loss of life would not be so severe as in previous attacks, as these districts had largely been evacuated before the latest bombing raid.

Three Close Shaves

The engineers who had narrow escapes were Messrs. Murphy, Buchanan and Viser.

Buchanan was talking to a Chinese watchman in the Waterworks compound when the raiders appeared overhead.

Both made a dash for cover in different directions, but while Buchanan escaped unscathed, the Chinese watchman was blasted to pieces when a huge bomb exploded near by.

Murphy was sitting on the steps of the canteen, fondling his two dogs, when he heard the 'planes overhead. As he threw himself inside, clutching his dogs, several bombs exploded in the compound, shattering the windows of the canteen, and showering Murphy with glass and débris.

Viser was in his own quarters, which was the only building which was not damaged in the entire enclosure.

During the raid one bomb exploded directly in front of the Mayor's offices, wrecking the windows and the wireless antenna.

Fortunately, however, the entire staff were in dug-outs, and escaped unscathed.

Nine Chinese are reported to have been killed in Saichuen during the afternoon—Reuter.

France Protests To Gaimusho

Canton Hospital Hit By Japanese Bombers In Recent Raid

Paris, June 7.

The French Government have instructed their Ambassador in Tokyo, M. Charles Arsene Henry, to protest to the Japanese Government on two matters.

M. Henry is making his first protest against the bombing of Chinese open cities by Japanese aviators.

His second is against the Japanese aerial bombardment of the French, Paul Doumer Hospital in Canton.—Havas.

Japanese Response

Tokyo, June 7.

It is the belief of the French authorities, the French envoy, M. Charles Arsene Henry, was reported to have informed Mr. Kensuke Horinouchi, Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs, that the raids on the City of Rams would excite French national sentiment, and thus adversely affect Franco-Japanese relations.

Pointing out that Canton is not a defenceless city, but a well-fortified Chinese base, Mr. Horinouchi in response emphasized that the bombing of Canton was entirely legal.—Domei.

French Marines Landed

Tokyo, June 6.

French marines were landed at Canton to protect the French-owned Doumer Hospital on the Chinese Bund after Japanese planes had scored a direct hit on it, slightly injuring Commander-Surgeon Talec, it was reported here.

French consular authorities also joined other foreign consular officials in the inspection of bombed areas in Canton, it was understood.—United Press.

Japanese Consul Sorry

Hongkong, June 6.

The Japanese Consul-General announced today that the British Consul in Canton, Mr. A. P. Blunt, protested through the Hongkong Government against Japanese planes power-diving over British property in Shameen. The protest did not mention any particular raid.

The French and American Consuls were believed contemplating similar protests.

"I for one," the Japanese Consul said, "am most sorry that our people flew over Shameen. They will have to be more careful in the future."—United Press.

Bitter Paris Criticism

Paris, June 7.

The bombing of the French Paul Doumer Hospital in Canton by Japanese planes yesterday was bitterly criticized this morning in the prominent daily organ, "Le Journal."

"The fact that no confusion was possible makes the aggression even more inadmissible," the paper stated. "The hospital was not only ostensibly painted with the French colours, but is situated in a large piece of ground away from the central part of the town, M. Arsene Henry (French Ambassador in Tokyo) was asked to make known to the Japanese Government the sentiments of indignation and reprobation in France caused by this violation of international law and of the most elementary principles of humanity."—Havas.

Raiders Again Visit City in Moonlight

Canton, June 7.

Although residents were confident that night would bring respite from the repeated visits of Japanese 'planes, a moonlight air raid which began at 8.30 p.m. showed that even darkness affords no relief from the raiders' visits. The 'planes which participated in the third raid on Canton in one day were seen to be dropping incendiary bombs in the northern districts.

A bright half-moon assisted the raiders and, although the city was in complete darkness, the objectives must have been clearly visible from the 'planes. An eerie quiet encompassed the vast crowds on the waterfront, broken occasionally by the drone of aeroplane engines ominously drawing nearer, as the 'planes came closer to the city and passed overhead towards their objectives. The raiders appeared to have concentrated once again on the Saichuen district.

At 11.30 tonight the moonlight raid on Canton was still in progress, and it looked as if it was to be a whole night affair.

From eighteen to twenty bombs had then been dropped on Saichuen, and a number of missiles on the Canton-Kowloon Railway.

No anti-aircraft fire was to be heard, and there were no searchlights to pick out the raiding aircraft as they circled round and round repeatedly bombing their objectives. Residents of Shameen could see the 'planes circling overhead, picking them out in the clear moonlight.—Reuter.

Japanese Version of Monday's Raid

Government, Party Offices In Canton Hit by Bombs

Heavy damage was caused to important structures in Canton in the course of a Japanese air raid on the city on Monday, a naval communique issued here yesterday claimed.

Main buildings of the city's power plant were said to have been partly destroyed and set on fire.

Similar damage was said to have been caused to the headquarters of the Provincial Kuomintang, on which direct hits were scored.

The head office of the Telephone Company was demolished by Japanese bombs, the communiqué said. Direct hits were also claimed on the headquarters of the Peace Preservation Bureau.

"More than ten direct hits", the communiqué said, were scored on aeroplane repair works at the Tungshan aerodrome, on the Sunning Railway. The buildings were said to have been set on fire.

British Cabinet Ministers Take Up Their New Posts

Gen. Franco Seeks To Delay Victory

Safeguards Against Counter-Revolution And Foreign Armies

Hendaye, June 7.

As a sequel to three ministerial meetings held within the last 24 hours and to an important conference with his chief lieutenant, Gen. Francisco Franco has decided not to accept the Anglo-French proposals for mediation in Spain.

The generals convoked at Burgos gave it as their opinion that the military situation is especially favourable and they advised the Generalissimo to refuse an armistice on the proposed conditions, it is learnt from Nationalist quarters.

From other sources, however, comes startling information which asserts that Gen. Franco does not wish peace to be concluded too soon and has even slowed down military operations in order to put back the moment when he would have to reorganize a new Spain. Behind his front lines, Gen. Franco knows that Nationalist Spain is not ready for peace, sensational reports claim.

The most serious problems which will arise in peace time cannot be discussed now because of numerous divergencies still existing between the various political parties in his territory. Some political observers even declare that too rapid a reorganization in the event of peace, would lead to a counter-revolution. Also, it appears to some that Gen. Franco does not wish to have an end put to the war before the withdrawal of the foreign troops in Spain. The presence of 40,000 Italians and 10,000 Germans in the country carries with it the risk of bringing internal as well as international complications.

It is therefore only Germany and Italy that urge the Nationalist General Staff to speed up military operations to end the war soon. They recommend a "total war," which would mean war on civilians also, as occurred recently in the aerial bombardments of Republican open cities. Gen. Franco does not appear ready to approve such tactics much longer.—Havas.

Gibraltar, June 7.

It is still persistently rumoured here that an uprising was attempted reently in Sevilla, from where it allegedly extended to the garrisons of Cadiz and Malaga.

The strictest censorship is maintained and no confirmation of these reports is available for the present.

According to rumours, there were several executions following the discovery of the plot after the finding of anti-Franco handbills.—Havas.

French Town Bombing Blamed on "Reds"

Gen. Franco and Italian Press Make Assertion

Rome, June 7.

The bombing of a French village on Sunday morning by unidentified aircraft, allegedly from Spain, has been unanimously attributed by the Italian press to "disguised Red aeroplanes." The newspapers declare that the "position of the Spanish Republican Government is so desperate that the only chance of saving it is to provoke a European war."—Reuter.

M. Daladier Visits Scene

Paris, June 7.

M. Eduard Daladier, the French Premier, yesterday visited !Aix-les-Thermes, a village on the French Pyrenees frontier, near which nine unidentified grey-coloured aeroplanes carried out bombing operations early Sunday morning.

The Premier ordered precautions to prevent any further incursion by foreign war planes over French territory. An anti-aircraft company has now arrived in the neighbourhood of Aix-les-Thermes.

Sunday's visit by foreign planes was followed by another on Monday, when French batteries immediately went into action against the machines, which were said to be Spanish.—Reuter.

British Air Bombing Commission Proposal Favourably Received

Norway, Sweden Accept; U.S. Studying Plan; Neutral Investigation on Spot Recommended

London, June 7.

GREAT Britain's invitation to Norway, Sweden and the United States to participate in an international commission to investigate air bombardments in Spain is understood to have been, in general, favourably received. Further consideration of the invitation, however, is necessary, and the scheme may have to be modified before it can gain complete acceptance.

At present, it is proposed that the commission establish a base in France and be ready to respond to an invitation to visit either territory in the Spanish conflict, in order to inspect bombarded towns and ascertain whether or not they contained military objectives.

The governments represented on the commission would in no way be committed for its reports, the intention being rather to put world opinion in possession of the facts.

Report on Granollers Raid

Mr. J. H. Leche, British Minister to Spain, who recently paid a personal visit to Granollers after the city had been bombed, reported to London today that there were no military objectives in the centre of the town, where most of the casualties occurred. There were a few factories and an aerodrome on the outskirts of the town, Mr. Leche stated.

Granollers, a town near Barcelona, was bombed on May 30, when 200 were killed, 150 seriously injured and 350 slightly wounded.—Reuter.

Norway, Sweden Accept

Oslo, June 6.

U.S. Studying Scheme

Washington, June 6.

Officials of the State Department today said that the Government was considering the British proposal that the United States join Britain and other neutral Powers to investigate the aerial bombing of Spanish civilians.—United Press.

London Press Indignant

London, June 7.

The press here this morning again devoted lengthy articles to the air bombings in Spain and China.

"Yesterday again brought news of numerous bombings in China and Spain," stated "The Times" today. "Canton suffered the worst raid of the war.

"Last night it was learned that the Japanese Government, having realized that the British protests against the bombing of Canton had the backing of eye-witnesses and official reports, had informed the British Government that they would make a fresh and careful investigation," the paper added. "In China there are already several observers near at hand, but in Spanish towns there are few or none, and the British Government are anxious that the small international commission which they have suggested begin work as early as possible."

The "Daily Herald" announced in huge headlines the sinking of a British vessel, the St. Winifred, in Alicante resulting in the loss of five lives, the death of 27 people in the same city by Nationalist bombs, and the killing and wounding of a further 1,500 in Canton.

"Yesterday's news of war should be taken as the cynical answer from Japan and Gen. Franco and his Fascist allies to the repeated protests and remonstrances from the British Government," the paper added.—Havas.

S.V.C. Motor Lorry Kills Coolie

A Chinese coolie was killed instantly at about 7.25 a.m. yesterday when he was struck by an S.V.C. motor lorry, with trailer, at the corner of Hankow and Kiangse Roads. The Russian private driving the lorry is not being charged, it is understood, as police enquiries show that he was not to blame for the accident.

The lorry, No. 15959, was proceeding slowly (owing to the wet roads) along Hankow Road and had just reached the Kiangse Road corner when the coolie rushed out in front and was hit by the left front part of the vehicle. He was rushed to hospital but was dead on his arrival.

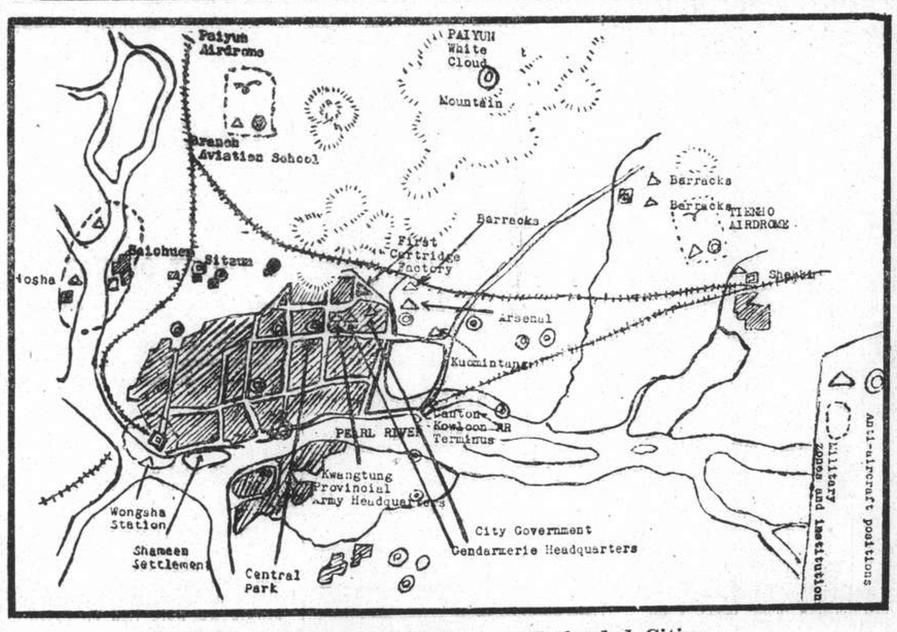
Large Shipment of Tea in Carthage

Interior Crops, Held Up By Recent Fighting, Go Direct to Hongkong

When the P. & O. ss. Carthage sailed from Shanghai yesterday afternoon she carried a cargo of about 1,000 tons of tea away with her for foreign markets. While this might be considered a normal shipment during normal times, it comes almost in the category of a "record" shipment when present business conditions are taken into consideration.

A number of leading tea merchants were interviewed on the subject yesterday by the "North-China Daily News" and all agreed that while such a shipment compared favourably with shipments at this time during normal years it was indeed a remarkable shipment for the moment. Whether or not this state of affairs would keep up, however, was problematical, but "we all hope so!"

Shipments of tea out of Shanghai at the moment are nearly all from the coastal districts via Wenchow, the tea arriving only in driblets. The teas from the interior districts, which normally come down the Chien Tang River, have been held up, of course, the recent fighting having been across the lines of communication, but efforts are being made to get them down to Hongkong, where a number of local tea merchants have established branch offices.



Canton, Hankow Described As Defended Cities

The Japanese Navy's "intention to carry out air raids with even greater vigour" against Canton and Hankow was announced at a press conference yesterday by Rear-Admiral Naokuni Nomura, Chief of the Naval Special Service Section. The diagram of the military objects in Canton, reproduced above, was distributed at the conference.

"With regard to the recent naval air raids on Canton which are now the subject of much discussion and criticism in various quarters," said Admiral Nomura, "the fact that some casualties have been suffered by non-combatants as a result of those raids is deeply regretted—although there is no question in our minds but that the civilian casualty figures as generally reported have been greatly exaggerated in consistent keeping with China's past policy and practice.

"Much of the criticism results, we believe, from the public's failure to realize that such cities as Canton and Hankow are not 'open cities' in the generally accepted sense of the term—there being every evidence to show that these cities are defended cities' fully equipped with formidable modern weapons for combatting attacks from the air.

"As the Japanese naval authorities have frequently stated in the past, our naval air units have always confined their targets to military objects and have, at great risk to themselves, carried out the bombing from low altitudes in order to assure the highest degree of accuracy possible.

"Recently, however, the anti-air defences of these cities have been greatly strengthened by the addition of large numbers of powerful anti-aircraft artillery which have been set up, not only in the neighbourhood of military objectives, but in all parts of the cities indiscriminately and seemingly without reference to the position of the military establishments.

Near Foreign Property

"And what is worse, the extreme cases in which the Chinese have constructed such defences in the immediate vicinity of property belonging to nationalis of third Powers are being found in increasing numbers.

"In such circumstances, our air units have had no choice but to carry out their recent raids at higher altitudes than before, with the inevitable result that some civilian casualties and damage to dwellings and other structures in close proximity to military objectives have occurred.

"Anyone at all conversant with the effects of modern weapons will at once realize the inevitablity of such losses—and Shanghai's own experiences are an evidence of that fact.

"While great care will continue to be exercised to secure the maximum degree of accuracy in the marksmanship of our air forces, it is at the same time our intention to carry out air raids with even greater vigour so as to bring the Chinese authorities to realize the futility of their present attitude, and in order that the hostilities, of which these air bombardments are a concomitant part, may be brought to a termination as speedily as possible.

"It is therefore the desire of the Japanese naval authorities that the citizens of third Powers resident in those cities will not only themselves avoid the areas in which China's antiair defences are located, but also advise the ignorant Chinese to seek shelter away from such danger zones."

Rear-Admiral Nomura denied on the basis of an official investigation that Japanese aircraft raiding Canton had used their machine-guns on relief workers and others.

Japanese Nearing Chengchow

Big Chinese Concentration Observed at Choukiakow As Troops Withdraw; Kaifeng Entered

MEETING little resistance, Japanese troops yesterday morning reached a point 20 klms. east of Chengchow, the vitally important junction of the Lunghai and Peiping-Hankow Railways.

At that time, military reports received here said, an engagement was in progress for the possession of a sand-swept village, evacuated by its terrorified inhabitants.

Meanwhile, cutting off the southward retreat of the Chinese troops entrenched in Chengchow, another Japanese column was reported to have occupied a village 16 klms. east of the Peiping-Hankow Railway and south of the railway junction.

Still another column, which on June 5 drove westward directly south of Kaifeng, was reported yesterday to have reached a point 20 klms. east of the railway linking Chengchow with Hankow.

With Kaifeng almost completely cleared of corpses, Chinese casualties in the battle for the possession of the city were put by the reports at more than 3,000 officers and men killed.

Vast war booty was also said to have been captured.

Chinese troops retreating on foot from Kaifeng along the Lunghai Railway were reported to have been overtaken by the pursuing Japanese mobile units and slain.

Formal Entry to Kaifeng

Japanese troops made a formal entry into Kaifeng on Monday afternoon, a spokesman for the Army announced yesterday morning.

The officer pointed out that no formal entry into a city is made until it is completely cleared of Chinese stragglers.

Choukiakow Concentration

Kweiteh, June 7.

With Japanese columns rapidly nearing the southern section of the Peiping-Hankow Railway, aerial observers today reported a concentration of Chinese troops at Choukiakow, 150 klms. south-east of Chengchow.

Staff officers here said the Chinese manœuvre was apparently designed to form a buffer between the advancing Japanese forces and the Peiping-Hankow Railway. The latter lies 50 klms. to the west of Choukiakow.

The strength of the Chinese forces massed in this area was put by staff officers here at "several divisions".—Domei.

Japanese Movements Described

Hankow, June 7.

The Japanese 9th Division from Mengcheng advanced towards Fengtai and Shouhsien on June 3, according to the Chinese spokesman last night, and was at present attacking at Chengyangkwan, where very severe fighting was now in progress.

He said that the "Japanese are attacking Kaifeng and Chengchow in three columns.

"The 16th Division, after reaching Kweiteh along the Lunghai Railway, advanced westward in two detachments, with the main body located south of the railway.

"The southern detachment," the spokesman continued, "reached Chihsien on May 31 and arrived at Chenliu and Hsukang on June 3. The following day it had advanced to a point 15 kilometres south-east of Kaifeng.

"The other detachment pushed westward along the railway, reaching Lanfeng on June 4, and had now arrived at Hsinlungchi, west of Lanfeng."

Continuing, the spokesman declared that when the "Japanese troops reached Chenliu, the Chinese forces which had been surrounding the Doihara division, north-west of Lanfeng, withdrew towards Kaifeng.

Luyi Occupied

"A second Japanese column, comprising the 10th Division, advanced west from Yungcheng, occupying Luyi on June 1. At present it was facing the Chinese forces east of Taikang.

"A third column," the spokesman asserted, "comprising the 14th Division, had advanced north-west of Lanfeng towards Kaifeng, when the Chinese troops, which had surrounded it, withdrew.

"The Japanese forces at Changteh (Anyang), on the Peiping-Hankow Railway, had been reinforced by one division," he concluded.—Reuter.

Chengchow Expected to Fall

Hankow, June 7.

The loss of Kaifeng, capital of Honan, is admitted in a Chinese military communique today, which adds that the Japanese forces are continuing their advance westward along the Lunghai Railway towards Chengchow.

Chinese troops, the statement asserts, evacuated Kaifeng yesterday afternoon, withdrawing to a new line east of Chungmou, where fighting is at present going on.

Although the Chinese forces on the Lunghai Railway will fight a rearguard action east of Chengchow, it is generally admitted that the fall of Chengchow is now only a matter of days.

Fighting, however, is expected to assume serious proportions as soon as the Japanese attempt to advance westward or southward from Chengchow.

Exciting experiences were told by foreigners arriving here today from the Lunghai Railway front.

On June 2 they walked from Kaifeng towards Lanfeng, but when en route at night they walked into a Japanese armoured car patrol unit. They had no idea that they were in Japanese territory until the armoured car turned its searchlights on the party, all the members of which immediately fell flat on the ground.

Shortly afterwards the armoured car disappeared in another direction. Knowing that Lanfeng was already surrounded by the Japanese, the foreigners walked back to Kaifeng where, however, they found to the railway service to Chengchow disrupted. This meant that they had walk to Chengchow, where they just managed to catch the last train leaving for Hankow.—Reuter.

Weinan Railway Occupied

Japanese forces yesterday completed the occupation of the Weinan Railway, a communique issued at 4.30 o'clock in the afternoon said.

The line extends for 200 kilometres in the centre of Anhwei province to tap the rich coal resources of the Weinan mines at Tienkian, south-east of Fengtai.

The railway passes through the towns of Chaohsien and Hofei, running almost parallel to the Tientsin-Pukow line.

Possession of this line will facilitate the operations of the Japanese forces now moving towards the Honan border from Chenyangkwan, which was occupied on Monday.

Civilians Evacuate Hankow

Wounded, Women, Children Being Sent to Interior; Japanese Raids Feared

Hankow, June 7.

The evacuation of Hankow is already in full swing. Measures have been decided upon for accelerating the removal of wounded soldiers and the civilian population.

Hankow's garrison commander, General Cheng Chen, called a conference attended by the mayor, the chief of police and other leading men of the city, when it was decided what measures were to be taken in case Hankow is threatened by another Japanese advance.

It is stated officially that these measures about which negotiations are now in progress are of a precautionary nature, but it is emphasized that certain partial measures are being carried out immediately, namely:—

Wounded to be Moved

1—Transport into the interior of the country of all soldiers in hospitals of the towns of Hankow, Wuchang, and Hanyang, as also all refugees, whose number is at present 60,000. It is expected, however, that the number of refugees will greatly increase in the next few days on account of the advance of the Japanese, and that all fugitives arriving will likewise be transported further into the interior of the country. Refugees without means will be transported at Government cost in so far as vehicles—railways, omnibuses, steamers and junks—are available, while the rest will have to continue westwards on foot.

2—It was decided that all Hankow schools would close in the middle of June in order that all pupils might return to their parents in the interior of the country or together with their parents seek a place of safety.

Regarding the remainder of the population of the Wuhan towns, numbering altogether, 1,500,000, it is declared that all that can be moved, and in particular all women, children and aged people, will be urged to leave the territory of the Wuhan towns. During the last week, over 200,000 persons already left this area, it is stated. The number of those transported at this week-end is estimated at 500,000.

Population Unworried

At the moment, it is declared in authoritative quarters, the greater part of the population shows no interest in moving, either because the danger is not realized or because they are without means.

In this connection it is emphasized by official Chinese quarters that it would be a mistake to assume that the Japanese advance would necessarily succeed with the same rapidity as that against the Lunghai railway and in north Anhwei. Japanese mechanized units in the Chinese opinion, can advance very rapidly on the plain of Honan province, but in the mountains suffer considerable difficulty. When it comes to man to man struggles, the Chinese army, it is believed in Hankow circles, is superior to the Japanese, so that when the Japanese reach the mountain ranges north of Hankow they will have to reckon with long fighting.—Trans Ocean.

Yellow River Dykes Broken at Kaifeng

Floods May Hamper Moves Of Japanese Army

Hankow, June 7.

Chinese press dispatches received here from the front today confirm yesterday's reports of the breaking of the Yellow River dykes in the vicinity of Kaifeng, capital of Honan.

"Owing to the heavy downpour of the past few days," the reports state, "the level of the Yellow River is rising, and the swollen waters have swept over the dykes north-west of Lanfeng, with the result that the countryside has been flooded."

The general opinion in Chinese circles here is that if the overflow reaches a large scale, hundreds of square miles of countryside in north Honan and west Shantung will be flooded, "probably involving the Japanese mechanized artillery in very great difficulties."

The countryside along both banks of the Yellow River in Honan and Shantung has been deserted by the Chinese peasantry owing to military operations, so the civilian casualties resulting from the flood are not expected to be large.—Reuter.

Hopei Governor Must Pass Japanese Lines

Hazardous Journey Ahead Of Gen. Lu Chung-lin

Hankow, June 7.

General Lu Chung-lin, the newly-appointed Governor of Hopei, is leaving Hankow shortly for Hopei accompanied by Mr. Wang Chen-tseng, Commissioner of Education, and other members of the provincial government.

General Lu has a particularly difficult journey ahead, for he will have to cross Japanese-occupied territory to reach his destination, which is situated in a part of Hopei still under the control of the Chinese Government.

On the eve of his departure, General Lu has issued a statement saying he will organize and direct regular troops and militiamen in Hopei to fight the Japanese forces in the province.

He has, he says, two objectives: to disturb the Japanese rear, and to "awaken the populace of Hopei to join in the fighting for national preservation."—Reuter.

Mrs. Grace Holbrook Tewksbury

In the presence of a large company of her Chinese and western friends Mrs. Grace Holbrook Tewksbury, wife of the Rev. Elwood G. Tewksbury, missionary secretary of the China Sunday School Union, was laid at rest in the Bubbling Welling Cemetery, on Monday afternoon. She had not been strong for many years and her heart was not able to withstand a sudden asthmatic attack which occurred on the evening of June 2.

The burial service was held in Bubbling Well Chapel. Dr. P. F. Price, who had known Mrs. Tewksbury since 1910 when she and her husband commenced their work with the China Sunday School Union, for a short time in Nanking and then in Shanghai, officiated at both the services in the Chapel and by the grave. The service was intended to be an informal gathering of friends, a few of whom had been asked to speak briefly of the several periods in her missionary life. Mr. Peter Chuan spoke on behalf of her many friends in the North where the Tewksburys commenced their work for China in 1890.

Mr. Walter Milward, of the National Bible Society of Scotland, spoke on behalf of the Missionary home where the Tewksburys have lived for the last quarter of a century. Mrs. I. M. Dungan sung appropriate words to the Londonderry Air Gardner Tewksbury was at the organ for the service in the Chapel. After the Scripture was read in Chinese by the Chinese secretary of the C.S.S.U., the The Rev. T. F. Pan, W. Kenneth Sharman of the China Inland Mission read a poem-prayer by Irene Judson. This unusual prayer was from a clipping found in an envelope addressed by Mrs. Tewksbury to her daughter in Chefoo. Mrs. Roberta Preedy. The Rev. G. W. Gibb, Director of the C.I.M. under which Roberta and her husband work, offered prayer, and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. H. Maxcy Smith as representing the honorary officers of the C.S.S.U. Committee.

Upon the close of the service in the Chapel, the casket was carried to the grave by six friends, Messrs. Griffin, Smith, Chuan, Chow, Pan and Sharman, preceded by Dr. Price and followed by the three relatives in Shanghai, the husband, son Gardner, and granddaughter Margaret.

Floral remembrances, together with money contributions toward a Fund for providing the "Bread of Life" to war refugees, were received from the following friends:

The entire Chinese staff of the C.S.S.U., Miss M. A. Leaman, Miss Grace Tong, Miss M. W. Jewell, Miss M. Sells, the Rev. and Mrs. Lacey Little, the Graham family, Miss J. Ruscup, Miss R. E. German Press Reveals Nazi Desire for Balkan and Danubian "Dominions"

British Tariff Scheme on Ottawa Accords Given As Basis of "Empire"; Intrusions Resented

Berlin, June 6.

Since the trip paid to Italy by the Fuehrer, the press here is taking particular pains to express clearly the Reich's aims in South-East Europe, notably the political and economic objectives of this country in the Danube basin and the Balkan states.

The "Berliner Zeitung" bringing up the "misunderstanding" by Democracies of the Sudeten problem and the whole of South-East European questions, demands that relations with Balkan and Danubian states be modelled on those between Great Britain and the Dominions.

The paper specified that such a system, which it terms the "economic system of the Greater Reich" would be practically tantamount to a colonial possession by virture of the preferential tariffs between the Danubian and Balkan economic systems with the Reich.

Balkan "Ottawa Accords"

The system would be inspired by the Ottawa accord, with Italy and the Reich forming the nucleus around which would be found Hungary, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Greece, Spain and her colonies, Albania, and later Rumania, Turkey, and the Japanese bloc.

Such plans may seem exaggerated, but it is certain that during his trip to Rome, Herr Hitler outlined to Il Duce the vital necessity for Germany to supply herself with foodstuffs and raw materials in the Balkan states and the Danube Basin.

The Third Reich considers these territories as a natural complement of its economy which is risking strangulation if Germany does not expand her action, and this despite the Four-Year Plan.

German indignation at certain political and financial initiatives in Eastern Europe by Western Democracies results from the fact that the Reich considers these initiatives as "interference" in a zone in which it claims control.

France "Interferring"

German papers frequently accuse France of pursuing a policy which is "a continuation of Richelieu's" and of stubbornly maintaining her influence in Eastern Europe "contrary to her real interests."

France is also accused of pursuing her aims of hegemony in this part of Europe by means of loans and purely financial transactions, while Germany possesses in these regions a "natural economic interest" both as a client and as a salesman.

More recent accusations are brought to bear particularly upon Great Britain owing to the credits recently granted Turkey, and certain plans which the German press alleges that she has in Rumania.

The Reich accuses Great Britain of wanting to counter-balance German trade in Eastern Europe.

Some papers suspect Great Britain of desiring to finance the construction of a railway connecting Constanza with the oil mining regions in Northern Rumania, to absorb this raw material which the Reich considers as a natural part of its economy.—Havas.

A (Spelling) Bee in Shanghai's Bonnet?

R.A.M.C. Introduce Novel Contest to Shanghai

Spelling Bee contests, which are the rage of England at the present time, have made their appearance in Shanghai, and if they prove as popular here as at Home the local bookstores should do a roaring trade in the sale of dictionaries.

The Royal Army Medical Corps in Shanghai have decided to hold such a contest between all ranks, the man with the least number of spelling mistakes winning the prize, which will be awarded at the end of the contest.

It is surprising how many everyday words are mis-spelt, as the results of competitions in England have shown, and although such difficult words as Xonotlite and Zweiselite have been given in the contests held at Home, commonly used words such as parallel, pomegranate, and lacquer have been spelt wrongly.

It is to be hoped that Shanghailanders do not get this spelling bee in their bonnet to such an extent that the dictionary will replace Edgar Wallace on their bookshelves, or that they cannot sleep through wishing they had remembered that there was a "p" in pneumonia, or only one "r" in parallel. The contests, however, are amusing, and promise to be popular wherever they are introduced.

A set time is given for the spelling of each word, and at the end of the contest points are awarded for the number of words spelt correctly.

Berlin Pastors Said Refusing Nazi Oath

Berlin, June 7.

It is rumoured that practically all the pastors in Berlin have refused to take the oath of allegiance to Herr Hitler which was demanded by the Nazi authorities with May 31 set as the last day. A further delay has been granted them.

The Pastors who refused considered that the oath asked was not consonant with evangelical teachings.

It is reported from Mecklemburg that three members of the Evangelical Church were discharged. What new measures the authorities intend to take to cope with the Pastors' refusal to take the oath are not yet known.—Havas.

Customs' Annual Marine Report

Concise, All-Embracing Compendium of Maps And Information

Despite one of the most turbulent years in its history, the Marine Department of the Chinese Maritime Customs has once again come out with its report for the past year, in the shape of a 500-odd page book, with dozens of maps and inserts, bound in the familiar yellow cover of publications issued by the Statistical Department.

To the casual reader, perhaps the most interesting part of the report lies in the manner in which all reference to the hostilities have been neatly dealt with in a manner which will offend the susceptibilities of neither party. At times, however, they would appear to have erred slightly on the side of impartiality.

Under "Shanghai" for instance appears the following:—

The launch and passenger-boat traffic between Shanghai, Hangchow, Wuhsien (Soochow) and Huchow was of considerable importance in pre-railway days but has now dwindled to a very insignificant figure owing to competition by speedier railway transportation. The opening-up of the various motor roads around Shanghai recently has dealt the final death-blow to this business.

The Shanghai City Government Ferries run various ferry services across the river and down to Woosung. These services are run on schedule by modern and well-equipped motor-driven vessels.

These two paragraphs, which appear on page 113 of both the 1936 and 1937 reports, were undoubtedly true up to the middle of August last year, and there is no doubt everyone hopes they will be true again in the not too distant future But reading them in the present tense at the moment makes one feel somewhat strange.

Apart from what appear to be discrepancies of this nature, however, the Marine Department report is the concise yet all-embracing report it has ever been with information and maps covering all Customs districts in China, from Pakhoi to Chinwangtao, and Shanghai to Chungking.

In addition, there are separate chapters given to aids of navigation, both established and discontinued construction and maintenance works work in hand or under consideration; wrecks and other casualties fog-gun signal table; tide and river guage readings; port signals; and many others.

French Socialists on Dictator States

Policy of Force Deplored; Anglo-French Amity Hailed

Bordeaux, June 6.

A resolution condemning the policies "of force" of the totalitarian States, was adopted here today at the Congress of the Socialist and Republican Union.

The resolution declares the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis constitutes a permanent menace to peace, and goes on to voice felicitations over the close co-operation between France and Great Britain, "which contributes to put war at a distance."

The Congress also advocates international political and economic negotiations to permit the rapprochement of peoples and the return of prosperity; it also reaffirms its fidelity to the League of Nations and to the principle of collective security.

Confidence in the Daladier Government of France was also expressed.

Finally, the Union declared its opposition to any attempts at changing the Forty-Hour-Week Law. Revision of this law, it asserted, would not provide an efficacious remedy "to the continued aggravation of the economic crisis."—Havas.

British Mill Property Not All Restored

Electric Motor and Meter Said Held by Japanese

Although a Japanese Embassy spokesman announced on Sunday that the electric motors and machinery which Japanese cotton interests and military took from the British-owned Sung Sing Cotton Mill No. 7, had been returned, it was learned yesterday that one electric motor and one electric meter, valuable fixtures in the British mill, had not been given back to the owners.

When inquiries were made by the "North-China Daily News" yesterday forenoon, it was stated by informed quarters that, up to that time, no attempt had been made by the Japanese to return the motor and meter. The other property appropriated by the Japanese and taken to their Kung Dah Mill No. 2 was restored to the Sung Sing Mill on Sunday.

The case of the "removal" of the valuable mill machinery attracted wide attention after it had been given publicity in the "North-China Daily News." Questions were asked regarding it in the House of Commons on June 3, and two days later the Japanese Embassy spokesman in Shanghai announced that the property had been "removed by mistake" and was being returned. Urgent representations were made by H.M. Consulate-General two weeks ago.

THE sale of poppies last Armistice Day for the funds of the British Legion yielded £554,385, an increase of £8,000 over the previous year.

Children's Summer Health Troubles.

In the summer months children are prone to health upsets. They get overheated at play with the consequent danger of chills, they eat ice-cream and other delicacies injudiciously, and fruit which may be out of condition; they swallow too many cold drinks and generally run health risks mainly through ignorance of the possible consequences of their actions. Parents should be even more vigilant than usual at this time of the year, ready to correct any health irregularity at the first sign.

SEVERAL Chinese weights of the third and second centuries B.C. have been purchased, by the Science Museum, South Kensington. Recently a good deal of interest has been taken in the ancient linear measures of China, but the study of the weights has been neglected. The two, however, are closely related, for the capacity measures were based on the linear foot, and the standard of weight appears to have been based on the weight of grain contained by the standard capacity vessel. There seems to have been much confusion before the reign of Shih Huang Ti (249-210 B.C.), who established a regular system of weights and measures, a fact which is stated on a bronze weight, just acquired by the museum and made in the twenty-sixth year of his reign. This weight, which is of 64 Chinese ounces, is bell-shaped, but others, made of white jade, are in the shape of tortoises.

Slovak Rights to Autonomy Flatly Repudiated

Dr. Hodza Answers Msg. Hlinka; Slovakian Desires Believed Based Chiefly on Religious Grounds

Prague, June 7.

A vigorous reply to the campaign by Msgr. Andrej Hlinka, Chairman of the Slovak People's Party, for Slovak autonomy has been made by Dr. Milan Hodza, Czech Premier and himself a Slovak member of the Czechoslovak Agrarian Party.

Addressing a meeting of Slovak Agrarians yesterday, which was also attended by delegates of the Slovak Social Democrat Party, Dr. Hodza declared that Czechoslovak unity was the basis of their state. They could not allow anyone to endanger or diminish that unity.

"Against those who try to injure the good name and the unity of the Czechoslovak Republic," Dr. Hodza emphasized, "we shall immediately declare war, which will be conducted by constitutional and lawful means."

Obligations Carried Out

The Prime Minister declared that the Republic had fully carried out its obligations towards Slovakia, and the Slovak People's Party was not entitled to speak in the name of the whole Slovak people, but only in the name of its constituents.

Herr Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten German Party, has now returned from his recent visit to Germany. Nothing has so far transpired regarding whether the trip had any political purpose.—Reuter.

Obligations Carried Out

Berlin, June 7.

Authoritative circles here deny rumours spread abroad that Herr Konrad Henlein, Leader of the Sudeten German Party, is at present in Berchtesgaden, where he is alleged to be carrying on negotiations with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler.

Herr Henlein left Asch for an unknown destination the other day and upon the departure of Deputy Kundt, his right-hand man, also for an unmentioned place, several rumours began circulating.—Havas.

Slovak Desires Analyzed

Prague, June 6.

Commenting on the demonstrations by the Slovak People's Party and the Czech manifestations at Bratislava today, observers here declare these demonstrations show that the demands for autonomy made by the Slovaks are based more on religious and social desires than on nationalism. In fact, Msgr. Hlinka leader of the Slovak group, is carrying on his campaign for autonomy chiefly on religious grounds.

The peasant masses of Slovakia are church-going Catholics who consider Bohemia, land of Hussite doctrines, as the centre of heresy.

Collaboration with Sudetens

Politicians go so far as to assert that "in his fight against Prague, Msgr. Hlinka has been led to assume an anti-Marxist position similar to Herr Henlein's, and also to take an anti-Semite stand because he recruits his partisans among poor peasants who are the victims of money-lenders. His law-enforcing group has been reorganized and is now modeled on that of Herr Henlein, so that the two parties find themselves bound by similarity of organisation and aims."

Observers stress that this "alliance" appears only tactical.

It is recalled that there was close co-operation between Msgr. Hlinka and the present Premier, Dr. Milan Hodza, before the war, when both fought against the Hungarian Government. Today, Msgr. Hlinka is rising against M. Hodza, reproaching him because he is a protestant.—Havas.

New Incidents Alleged

Berlin, June 7.

Under heavy headlines and with very caustic comment the whole German press publishes reports of the German semi-official news agency about new incidents in Czechoslovakia where 20 Sudeten Germans were injured near the Sudeten town of Bodenbach where Czech gendarmerie attacked with truncheons and the butts of rifles a group of orderlies of the Sudeten German Party, twenty orderlies being injured, one so badly on the head that he had to be taken to hospital. The Sudeten Germans were on their way homewards from an election meeting of the Sudeten German Party at Matzdorf near Bodenbach.—Trans-Ocean.

U.S. Slovak's Views

Bratislava, June 6.

Dr. Peter Hletko, Chicago leader of the American Slovak delegation here for the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Czechoslovak Republic, today accused Herr Adolf Hitler and Herr Konrad Henlein, Sudeten leader, of attempting to exploit the Pittsburgh Autonomy Agreement of 1918 in order to dismember Czechoslovakia.

The Pittsburgh Pact, made between the Czech and Slovak groups of America, assured the Slovaks of cultural autonomy.

"We want the Slovaks to have autonomy but within the Czechoslovak Republic," Dr. Hletko said.

"We feel close to Mgr. Andre Hlinka because he made the treaty part of his programme. However we object to a nation like Germany and a minority like the Sudetens exploiting our demands as an indication that Czechoslovakians desire to break the Republic."—United Press.

Old Chinese Silks Exhibition

An exhibition of old Chinese textiles opened on Monday under the auspices of the Shanghai Art Collectors' Society, at 55 Yuen Ming Yuen Road, 3rd. floor.

Prof. Y. Laurell, president of the society, and Educational Director of the Royal Asiatic Society, gave an interesting address on this occasion, in which he outlined the historical past and the importance of China's silk industry.

Legend attributes the discovery of silk in China to Empress Lei Tsu, wife of the third Emperor of China (about 2695 B. C.), while in Europe this industry remained unknown until the end of the sixth century A. D. when the first silk worms arrived in Constantinople.

In ancient days silk materials reached Europe arriving from the Orient by the overland route through Central Asia via Honan, Kansu, South Mongolia, Turkestan, Persia and Asia Minor; but as far as the end of the first century A. D. Italian ships found the sea-route to China and carried home Oriental "silk and spices".

The lecturer then dealt in detail with various animal and floral designs found on ancient silks, demonstrating the explanations with numerous specimens exhibited.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Z. F. How

Mrs. Z. F. How, widow of the late founder of the Commercial Press, Ltd., died early yesterday morning at the age of 65. She is survived by her son Mr. Bing How, and eight daughters, Miss Moli How, Mrs. Ruth Kuo, Mrs. Frank Ling, Mrs. Nelson Chiang, Mrs. Albert Suez, Miss Looyuin How, Mrs. K. F. Wang, and Mrs. Wilfred Wong.

Mrs. How was the daughter of the late Pastor Bao Chi-tsai, the first Chinese pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Shanghai, and received her early education at the Bridgeman Girls' School. She was married to Mr. Z. F. How in 1895. When Mr. How first started the Commercial Press Ltd., in 1897 with his two brother-in-law, Messrs. Bao Yien-en and Bao Yien-chang, she was instrumental in securing the first necessary funds for her husband's share in the business. She assisted her husband in many ways in the subsequent development of the Press. Ever since then she watched with keenest interest the steady growth of the Commercial Press over 42 years from a humble beginning of a two-room shop to the national institution it is today.

When her husband met his untimely death in January, 1914, she faced the terrible shock with great courage. After much difficulty and with unusual intelligence and the help of Mr. How's colleagues she finally cleared up all her husband's financial affairs, which his sudden death had left unattended, and gave her devoted attention to the upbringing and education of her children.

A Devout Christian

She was a devout Christian and a liberal giver. Her efforts in the propagation of the Gospel were untiring. She contributed very generously to the construction of the Fitch Memorial Church on Darroch and the Chinese Presbyterian Churches in Chapei and Nantao. In memory of her husband she donated a free school in Chingpoo, the native town of Mrs. How, and a building at the Lunghwa Orphanage. When the late Dr. W. S. New planned to found an orthopaedic hospital for crippled children, she was the first one to make a substantial donation toward that institution. This, like many other donations, she made anonymously. She shunned publicity, but was always kind-hearted and helpful to those in need. She was the source of inspiration to all who had the good fortune to know her. In spite of her comfortable position, she never spent a single dollar for luxury on herself, while she would not hesitate to donate most generously for a worthy cause.

The destruction of the Commercial Press factory in Chapei, which was dear to her heart, during the Sino-Japanese War of 1932 and again 1937, was a most severe shock to her and weighed heavily on her mind. For the past few months her heart and kidney trouble which she had been suffering for many years, suddenly took a turn for worse.

The encoffining ceremony will take place at 3 p.m., on Thursday at the parlours of the International Funeral Directors, 207 Kiaochow Road. A memorial service will be held at the Moore Memorial Church, on Yu Ya Ching Road, at 3 p.m., Tuesday, June 14.

True to her simple way of life, the deceased had expressed the wish that no flowers or other tokens of sympathy should be sent by her friends, but rather that the money should be donated to the Shanghai Christian Federation, Moore Memorial Church, Yu Ya Ching Road, for the relief of war refugees.

British Co-Operative Congress Again Considers Japanese Boycott

Case Against Proposal Strongly Presented; Resolution Against War-Makers Passed

London, June 7.

The proposal for a boycott on Japanese goods during the period of the Sino-Japanese hostilities again came up before the Co-operative Congress, held at Scarborough, yesterday.

A delegate to the Congress severely criticized the Co-operative Wholesale Society for ignoring the recommendation of the National Co-operative Authority, on March 4, that members of all co-operative societies cease to purchase Japanese goods during the present Far Eastern conflict.

Mr. G. H. Riddle, defending the attitude of the Co-operative Wholesale Society, said that they had to take a wide view of trading relations, both nationally and internationally.

"Why did the delegates not raise the same issue with regard to Germany and Italy?" Mr. Riddle asked.

He said that only forty out of 1,200 societies had made representations on the subject and that some of the societies, who were most emphatic in their demands in the matter, had actually been buying Japanese goods.

The Congress, with few dissentients, passed a resolution instructing the societies to refuse to buy goods from nations proceeding with war without first offering to submit their grievances to independent arbitration.—Reuter.

Chungking Chinese Ask Passages to Hongkong

Air Lines Fully Booked; More Planes Needed

Chungking, June 6.

Nervous over the war situation, hundreds of well-to-do Chinese are demanding air passages for Hongkong.

As a result the Eurasia Corporation has decided to double its schedule between Hankow and Hongkong, making ten round trips a week instead of five as before.

Planes of the China National Aviation Corporation are also fully booked up.

Machines of this concern recently made several trips to Hongkong via Hankow, but are expected to resume their normal route this week, which is via Kweilin.

Preparations for a new route, from Chungking to Kunming, have not yet been completed. The service is expected to open at the end of this month.—Reuter.

Giants Break Losing Streak

Cubs Also Win to Maintain Baseball Lead as Foxx, DiMaggio, Ott Make Home Runs

New York, June 6.

THE harassed New York Giants, dogged by a tenacious losing streak that had run to six straight games, turned on the Cincinnati Reds with a snarl today and battered the offerings of three Redleg pitchers for 15 hits to run up an 11-2 victory.

Despite their victory the Giants failed to regain first place, however, a spot they had held without interruption since the first game of the year. The Cubs hung on to their slim lead by trouncing the Philadelphia Phillies in a slugfest, 10-8.

The Giants fell on the offerings of Ed Hollingsworth for five runs in the first inning, driving him to the showers under the barrage. Davis was rushed to the rescue and succeeded in quelling the uprising, but he too, got into difficulties later, and was relieved by Lee Grissom, who managed to hold the Terrymen in check after the damage had been done.

Johnny McCarthy played a leading role in the Giant victory, driving in four runs with a double and three singles. Ott also starred, cracking out his eleventh homer of the season, while Ernie Lombardi took hold of one to send it sailing into the bleachers with a mates aboard to account for the two Cincinnati runs.

Cubs Win "Track Meet"

Over at Wrigley Field, meanwhile, the Cubs were outstepping the Phila in a veritable track meet. Three runs in the first and two in the second provided the demise of Bucky Walters, who was chased to the mound, and the rest of the Phil twirlers, as usual, were ineffective. Pinky Whitney and Walter Mueller connected for homers, but beyond boosting the club total, failed to avert defeat.

The Brooklyn Dodgers were also in hitting form as they swamped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-4. Seven runs in the first inning sent Red Lucas scampering to the clubhouse, with Ernie Key responsible for three of the seven runs by virtue of a timely single and double with the bags saturated.

The St. Louis Cardinals ran wild in vanquishing the Boston Bees, 11-2. Six runs in the fifth inning chased Ira Hutchinson after the Bee twirler had held the Gasbag Gang well in check.

Joe Medwick was a veritable pyrotechnical display, connecting for a home run, a double and two singles in four trips to the plate to drive in four runs. Clyde Padgett and Johnny Gutteridge also connected for circuit blows to aid the Cardinals cause.

In the American League, the Cleveland Indians continued well out in front despite a 5-4 setback at the hands of the Washington Senators. The Tribe came from behind to score three runs in the ninth inning and knot the count, but the Nats came back in the eleventh to score the deciding run.

Weird Game

It was a weird game, the Senators scoring only five runs on 12 hits. In one instance a single, a double, a triple and a single could score only two runs. No less than fourteen Senators died aboard.

The New York Yankees came from behind to take the measure of the St. Louis Browns, 6-5. A five run rally by the Brownies in the fourth inning drove Beggs to the showers, and it was not until Joe DiMaggio blasted one over the wall in the seventh inning with two mates aboard that the Yankees went into the lead.

The Boston Red Sox nosed out the Detroit Tigers after a hectic battle, 8-7. Peffenberger hurled good ball for the Bengals until the seventh, when the Beantowners fell on his offerings to score four runs and chase him from the mound. Gehringer homered for the Tigers, but it was Jimmy Foxx who was the batting hero of the day, driving in four runs with a single and his 14th homer of the season.

Shanghai Junk Has Reached Yokohama

Double Hummel Encounters Stormy Weather; Little Craft America-bound

The tiny junk Hummel-Hummel with the American physician Dr. Peterson, his wife and two White Russian sailors, arrived at Yokohama on June 1 on her way to Los Angeles from Shanghai. She will stay at Yokohama for about 3 weeks for repairs and loading of provisions.

The 10-ton junk has an overall length of 36 feet, a beam of six feet and a draught of three feet. There is no auxiliary engine.

The vessel formerly was owned by Mr. W. Emmermann, German resident of Shanghai, who sold it to Dr. Petersen for this adventurous trip.

The new owner left Shanghai at the end of April and called at Nagasaki and Kagoshima on the way to Yokohama. Off Tosa, Shikoku Island, days were spent in fighting stormy weather and head winds. In the storm the vessel was damaged and complete repairs have to be made in Yokohama.

Dr. Petersen confessed to unfamiliarity with such adventurous sailing as will be encountered crossing the Pacific and said that everything depends on the capable handling of the two White Russian sailors. The skipper and crew were unanimous in praising the stability and good sailing properties of the small craft n this first part of their adventure. They expect to cross the Pacific by sail in 80 days.

Budge, Boussus Advance In Paris Tennis

American Pressed to Five Sets; Nakano Beats Mako

Paris, June 6.

Don Budge, world champion, and Christian Boussus, France's leading player, today won both of their fourth round matches in the international hard court tennis championship series.

The youthful American was forced to unleash a furious rally to oust Franco Kukuljevic of Yugoslavia in five bitterly-fought sets, 6-2, 8-6, 2-6, 1-6 and 6-1.

The French champion took the measure of Anderson of California in three straight sets, 6-4, 6-0, 6-2.

Budge beat Ghaus Mohamed of India earlier in the series, 6-1, 6-1, 5-7, 6-0, while Boussus triumphed over Jacques Jamain, 6-2, 6-0, 6-2.

Kukuljevic faced Budge by ousting J. H. Nelson of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-0, 6-2, and Anderson entered the fourth round by eliminating Henri Catteau of France, 6-1, 10-8, 2-6 and 6-1.

Fumio Nakano of Japan created an upset yesterday by trouncing Gene Mako of the United States, 6-1, 6-3, 4-6 and 6-0.

With Kukuljevic relying on his powerful forehand drives and smashes and putting over some dazzling ace services, Budge had to uncork his best in the latter stages of the match to win.

The Yugoslavian, only the third best player in his own country, played an aggressive game but his weakness when it came to using backhand strokes proved costly. Budge played to his backhand and caused the Yugoslavian, who had beaten Jack Crawford in 1933 when the Australian was ranked the world's No. 1, to net the ball time and again.—United Press.

Ambers Next Target For Armstrong

Lightweight Champion to Meet Arizmendi

Los Angeles, June 6.

Lou Ambers of Herkimer, New Jersey, lightweight champion of the world who will meet Henry Armstrong in a widely heralded battle for the title on July 26, was rated as a 7-4 favourite over Baby Arizmendi of Chihuahua, Mexico, in their nontitle bout scheduled for Tuesday at the Olympic Stadium.

Ambers is meeting Arizmendi in a tune-up bout for his battle with the Negro hurricane, who recently all but slaughtered Barney Ross to gain the title of welterweight champion of the world.

Arizmendi conquered Armstrong in their first fight three years ago, lost by a knockout in the ninth round one year later in this city, and held the featherweight champion to an extremely close battle approximately three months ago.

Betting odds for the Armstrong-Ambers battle depend on Lou's showing against the Mexican on Tuesday.

Australians Beat Essex

Nichols Takes 6 Wickets For 25 Runs, First Test To Begin June 10

London, June 7.

The Australian cricketers beat Essex by 97 runs, while Leicester beat Northants by an innings and 143 runs in the two first-class cricket matches concluded today.

The main feature of the Leicester-Northants match was a fine batting display by Prentice, of Leicester, who retired hurt after making 154 not out.

Nichols, the Essex fast bowler, took 6 wickets for 25 runs in Australia's second innings. His bowling was fiery, and very accurate, and his display a brilliant reply to the selectors for omitting him from England's side in the first Test Match, which opens at Nottingham on June 10.

Fighting Innings

McCabe, in a fighting innings, made 50 runs in an hour and 15 minutes, his score including six fours.

Using their combination of left-and right-hand slow bowlers, the Australians skittled Essex out for 87 runs in their second innings. Fleetwood-Smith took 5 wickets for 28 runs and Ward 4 for 26.

Details:—

At Leicester—Leicester won by an innings and 143 runs. Northants 163 and 125 (Walsh 7 for 47). Leicester 371 for 8, declared (Prentice retired hurt at 154 not out).

Sinfield, of Gloucester, has been asked to replace him.

Hardstaff, another probable member of the English Test team, will also be unable to play in the first Test match owing to injuries to his hand, which he sustained while attending to his car last night. His doctors today pronounced him unfit for the first Test.—Reuter.

World Championship Soccer Comment

Austrian Suspended from German Team

Berlin, June 7.

German newspapers today comment on the results of the third round of the world football championship.

It is universally agreed that the drawn game between Germany and Switzerland which brought in the record sum of 500,000 Francs was the most spectacular match of the round whilst that in which Hungary defeated the Netherlands laddies by 6-0 was in certain respects most interesting. The receipts in the latter match played in Le Havre were 145,000 Francs.

The decision of the German sport authorities to suspend Hermann Pesser, Austrian forward, for a period of two months owing to his unsportsmanlike behaviour in the closing stages of the match at the Prince's Park, has met with general approval despite the fact that Pesser's services in the replay on Thursday will be sorely missed. The only weakness shown by the German team on Saturday was the failure of the forwards to seize their opportunities in front of the goal.

Italy Just Wins

Norway came near to springing a surprise on Italy. Extra time had to be played before Italy scored the winning goal to win the right to meet France next Sunday. The French team gained a clear 3-1 victory over Belgium.

Poland is considered to have put up an excellent show against Brazil in Strassburg. The South Americans needed extra time before they could gain of a 6-5 victory. Their next opponents are the Czechoslovakia eleven which, though held to a goalless draw by the Netherlands, managed to score three goals in the extra time granted, mainly because the Netherlands had to resume without their good half-back, van der Veen, who was injured.

The team from the Netherlands Indies delighted the spectators by their agile and fair manner of playing. Their lack of tactics accounts for their 6-0 defeat by Hungary, who will meet the victor of Thursday's replay of the Switzerland-Germany encounter.—Trans-Ocean.

All Kinds of Tennis This Week Beginning in Shanghai

Men's League Today; Women's League Tomorrow; Championships Start on Saturday

LOCAL tennis will get into a broader scale this week as, besides the Men's League which commenced last Wednesday with the Second Division, competitions in the Women's League and the Championships are to get under way in respective order tomorrow and Saturday.

This afternoon, the second week's play in the Men's Second Division will be held. Of the six matches, the contest between the Shanghai Recreation Club and the Shanghai Cricket Club should evoke greatest interest. Both won their debuts by big margins. The Recs swamped the Association Sportive Francaise surprisingly by 13-2 while the Cricketers outclassed the Bramtoco Tennis Club by an identical score.

Strengthened by the inclusion of several new players, the S.R.C. are at present branded as potential winners of the junior team championship in this year's Lawn Tennis the title in 1933 and then regained the laurels in 1935. Should they live up to predictions in the present series, they will be the first team to win the pennant for the third time in the last ten years. From 1923 to 1927 the Portuguese predominated.

The Cercle Sportif Francais, the Police, Clube Lusitano and Sokol are expected to repeat their previous successes. A close fight looms between the Swiss Club and the A.S.F.

Today's full schedule, with the first-named team at home, is as follows:—

Swiss Club v. A.S.F.; Bramtoco v. Police; C.S.F. v. German Club; Clube Lusitano v. Waterworks; R.A.S.C. v. Sokol; S.R.C. v. S.C.C.

Women's League Tomorrow

Contests in the Women's League will begin tomorrow in both the First and Second Divisions. Due to an unavoidable delay on the part of one or two teams in submitting their entries, it has been impossible for the Association to have the full fixture list of the season printed yet. However, it is expected that the whole schedule will be ready within the next week.

A total of six teams have entered the senior section. The Cercle Sportif Francais, which won the "A" championship last year, promises to be as strong this season as ever. Its second team finished third in the same category, behind the Country Club, and will make a bird to improve upon even this performance. The French enjoy a considerable advantage over the other clubs in their greater choice of material and facilities such as playing grounds.

The Country Club, 1937 runners-up, have a stronger team this year. Besides the outstanding players of the past season, several new members have been added to their delegation. The Swiss Club, having captured the last junior championship, are senior members now and it is difficult to make any prediction.

In the Second Division seven teams have enlisted. There were ten contenders last year, the Rowing Club, the Junior Athletic Club and the Girls' Friendly Society now being absentees.

Tomorrow's schedule, with first named as home team, follows:—

First Division.—C.S.F. "A" v. Swiss Club, Russian Tennis Club v. C.S.F. "B," Country Club v. Associacao Portuguesas.

Second Division.—Associacao Portuguesas v. C.S.F. "C," Columbia Country Club v. Cathedral Tennis Club, Bramtoco v. Deutscher Tennis Klub. Country Club bye.

Championships Begin Saturday

The Shanghai Championships open on Saturday with the commencement of the Mixed Doubles. Play in the Ladies Doubles starts Sunday. These series will take place almost every day until the finals on June 26, Sunday.

An exceptionally keen championship season is anticipated. Several factors contribute to this encouraging outlook.

U.S. Continuing Arms Supplies

China and Japan Both Buy Planes Despite Official Attitude

Washington, June 7.

Statistics released by the State Department today revealed that Japan was the second highest purchaser of arms from the United States for the month of May, with China fourth in importance.

Brazil headed the list with purchases amounting to US$1,494,824, followed by Japan with $1,346,080, Great Britain with $637,000, China, Canada, Turkey, the Netherlands, and France following.

Total purchases from the United States for the month of May amounted to $5,588,706.

Brazil's imports were constituted principally by planes as were Japan's. Great Britain bought machine-guns and planes, while China also increased her air force by her purchases.

Military observers here consider the importance of the deliveries made to Japan during May as a sign that Japan is modernizing her air force which until now was composed mostly of planes constructed in Japan with British, French, and German licences, which were several years old.

Up till the present China led in purchases of planes from the United States, her total for the month of April this year amounting to $2,527,-162, while Japan's imports for the same period reached $1,889,025.

Free Supply of Arms

Circles closely connected with the State Department declared that the two belligerents are being granted the advantages of the American market for their military needs.

This was revealed immediately after the protest by the Secretary of State Mr. Cordell Hull against Japanese air bombing of Chinese open cities, caused diplomatic circles to examine once again the Far Eastern situation.

The Neutrality Act not having been invoked, the Secretary of State cannot refuse to deliver licences for the export of arms to China or Japan. American opinion, supporting Mr. Hull's protest, may influence President Roosevelt to alter his attitude towards the Sino-Japanese hostilities, for up till now the partisans of the non-application of the Neutrality Act based their stand on the fact that China had more to gain by this policy than Japan.—Havas.

I.L.O. Sino-Japanese Disagreement

Chinese Resolutions Bring Japanese Objections

Geneva, June 7.

Disagreement between the Chinese and Japanese workers' delegations over resolutions bearing on the Sino-Japanese hostilities featured a meeting this morning of the International Labour Office.

The Chinese delegation submitted a resolution expressing concern over the sufferings of Chinese. When the Japanese delegation strongly objected, the Chinese delegates agreed to withdraw the resolution, but later submitted another requesting a study of means to alleviate distress from a war of aggression.

Although this second resolution was supported by eleven workers' delegates, the Japanese again objected on grounds of procedure. They argued that the time limit for the submission of resolutions was past. The Conference Bureau upheld the objection.—Reuter.

B.W.A. Rooms Fire

Fire broke out in the rooms of the British Women's Association in the Hongkong & Shanghai Bank building at about 8.25 o'clock last night and the resultant damage was one vase broken and a rattan chair and some linoleum destroyed by the flames. Fire engines from Central Fire Station attended the fire, which was only a small one; what started it had not been determined last night.

Cholera Certificate Official Chops

Cholera certificates, issued by non-Japanese doctors, will now be made "valid" to non-English reading Japanese sentries, as a result of steps taken by the Japanese Consulate-General, which office as from yesterday began chopping certificates. It is notified that on application at the passport office, first floor of the Consulate, holders of certificates may have their document certified, and further, that employers with large staffs, may submit any number of papers by messenger to that office, provided they are accompanied by a covering letter. A similar chop has been issued to the French Concession authorities, while negotiations are in progress with the S.M.C. to provide their inoculating officials with a chop, further validating certificates. Any foreigner may present his servants' certificates at the Japanese Consulate-General for endorsement.

Mt. Mayon Eruption Not Dangerous

Expert Says Lava Flow May Engulf Some Villages

Manila, June 6.

With eruptions reported to be less in intensity the evacuation of Filipinos from the district near the Mt. Mayon volcano was slackening today although lava was half-way down the slopes.

Sr. Manuel Quezon, President of the Philippines Commonwealth, telephoned from his yacht by ship-to-shore telephone, ordering the army to take full precautions.

He said he would arrive at Legaspi on Thursday. Legaspi is the capital of the Albay province and close to the volcano.—United Press.

Not Explosive, Says Expert

Manila, June 7.

Mt. Mayon continues to rear, belch tall columns of smoke and pour out streams of molten lava.

Father Miguel Selga, director of the Weather Bureau, who is visiting the scene, announces that the eruption is not explosive and entails no danger to life, although the flow of lava may engulf some villages lying in its path.

Red Cross officials have advised against the contemplated establishment of concentration camps, which they point out, would only encourage wholesale evacuation of districts which are not endangered.—Reuter.

Chinese Embassy in Japan Closing

Gaimusho Says Treatment Has Always Been Proper, Considerate

Tokyo, June 7.

Considerate treatment given by the Japanese Government to the Chinese Embassy here is "without precedent in the diplomatic annals of the world," a spokesman for the Gaimusho said today.

The statement was made in connection with a communication informing the Government of the departure of Mr. Y. C. Yang, Chinese Chargé d'Affaires here, and his staff for China on June 11.

The Japanese Government, the spokesman said, has been extending to the members of the Chinese Embassy here the same diplomatic privileges as are given to other foreign representatives.

This treatment, he pointed out, was unaffected by the current Sino-Japanese hostilities, nor by the Government's announcement on January 16 that it would no longer deal with the Nationalist administration.

All Privileges Granted

The privileges extended to members of the Chinese Embassy, he said, included the use of code in telegrams, exemption from taxes and freedom of visiting the Diet while the latter is in session.

Chinese consular officials and residents throughout Japan, the statement continued, are also being given a "considerate and generous treatment."

The Government, the spokesman said, has taken every care to protect the Chinese diplomatic establishments here.

"The Chinese Embassy here," the official remarked, "will be closed shortly for reasons unknown to the Japanese Government.

"It is hardly necessary to point out that the Japanese authorities will give full protection to the Chinese diplomatic establishments even after the withdrawal of the Chinese diplomatic representatives."—Domei.

Isolationists Again Hit in U.S. Speech

New York, June 7.

"The United States cannot afford to be a cypher at this crucial moment in the world's history," declared Mr. Francis Sayre, Assistant Secretary of State in a broadcast last night on America's foreign policy.

"We must be resolute and prepared, if necessary, to withstand the aggression of the lawless," he said.

America's objectives in upholding and strengthening the rule of law in international relationships, Mr. Sayre added, could not be achieved through the policy of isolation, which he termed "the pathway to war."—Reuter.

Three-Power Naval Talks Near End

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, June 7.

Negotiations regarding the tonnage and gun calibre of battleships, which have been proceeding for over two months in London between Great Britain, France and America, are nearing completion, says Reuter's Diplomatic Correspondent. No announcement, he adds, will be made regarding the terms of the agreement until Germany and Russia have been notified.

Although it is understood that American opinion favours battleships of 45,000 tonnage, this figure cannot be confirmed as one on which the three countries are agreed. It is known that the British naval authorities prefer a smaller limit.—Reuter.

Canton Air Defences To Be Strengthened

Killing of Civilians to Be Avenged

Hankow, June 7.

A promise to strengthen the air defences of Canton in order to "avenge the death and wounding of thousands of Cantonese civilians by Japanese 'planes" was contained in a telegram addressed to the people of Canton today by General Chiang Kai-shek, commander-in-chief of China's armed forces.

General Chiang urged the populace "to fight for the country's lasting freedom in the spirit which has made Canton the birthplace of the Chinese revolution."

"Today's sacrifices," he concluded, "will pave the way for tomorrow's victory."—Reuter.

Crown Outlines Murder Case Against A.B.

H.M.S. Dorsetshire Incident Recalled

Hongkong, June 6.

The Crown today outlined a circumstantial case against Able Seamen Edwin Moreland Dwyer, charging that he had murdered Leading Seaman Robert Dickinson on board H.M.S. Dorsetshire because it was alleged that the deceased had discovered Dwyer in an immoral act.

Able Seaman Dwyer, who faced the preliminary proceedings at 9.30 a.m. but who has not been committed to trial yet, heard the prosecuting Crown solicitor describe the affair as a "clever, premeditated murder."

The murder occurred aboard the Dorsetshire when she was en route to Oriental waters from Australia on May 9. Because of the murder, H.M.S. Dorsetshire hurried to Hongkong, missing an intended halt at Manila.

In outlining the case for the Crown, the prosecuting solicitor alleged that Leading Seaman Dickinson was heard being threatened frequently by the accused.

The prosecution alleged that Dwyer had retained the rifle team's ammunition and had shot Dickinson in his sleep during the middle watch. Dwyer was not seen by anybody, the Crown solicitor said.

Several cartridges were among the exhibits.

Desertions Recalled

The prosecution recalled desertions by men of H.M.S. Dorsetshire while the war vessel was in Australian waters.

Lt.-Cmdr. Garnons-Williams, in evidence, said that such was only to be expected by the irresistible attractions in Australia.

His explanation weakened the Crown Counsel's implication that the desertions were linked with a quarrel preceding the murder.

During the cross-examination it was brought out that the accused was known as a seaman of the "highest standard of abiliy." It was also revealed he was an aspirant for wardroom rank and that his chances would have been ruined if he had been found guilty of the immoral act alleged.

In his statement made before the warship's investigators, Dwyer denied all knowledge of the crime. He said he saw a Chinese messman near the spot which the shot which killed Dickinson was fired.

The Crown Counsel concluded by asserting that the case hinges on the ownership of an overcoat found where the murderer must have stood on the darkened top deck.

The hearing closed with the defence cross-examining witnesses regarding the issue of ammunition and disposition of rifles.—United Press.

Monday's Closing Quotations

New York, June 6.

Trading in the cotton market was early moderately active, and prices declined on the weakness of Bombay advices, with active Bombay and foreign selling, especially of July option, readily supplying quiet active buying by spot interests. Demand was generally poor, with prices easily influenced by selling from any source. Finally, the market partially rallied on covering and New Orleans buying, which met with renewed selling and closed barely steady, with quotations ranging from 15 to 17 points down.

Prices in the rubber market early responded to Wall Street advices, and later further firmed on covering, a commission house demand and buying accredited to London, which found offerings limited chiefly from foreign dealers. At the last call-over, gains of 26 to 28 points were recorded.

Wheat prices in Chicago early ruled quiet but steady on rust complaints, disappointing yields from the southwest, the strength of Wall Street and prospects of Government spending to aid agriculture. Professionals, however, were opposed to the upturn, owing to the easiness of Winnipeg advices and the fact that the southwest may even be harvesting a bumper crop, which may result in hedge pressure in the near future. At the final bell, losses of ⅝ to ¾ of a cent were registered.

In the sugar market, scattered buying and covering met with liquidation and hedge-selling, with the market quiet due to the holiday abroad. At the close, quotations ranged from 1½ down to a ½ points up.

Trading in the silk market today was inactive, with operators awaiting domestic, trade and further Japanese cocoon market developments. Closing quotations were unchanged compared with Friday's final levels.

Boost in U.S. Gold Price

New York, July 6.

Despite denials by the United States Treasury, rumours are persistent that President Roosevelt will exercise his powers to boost the gold price towards $41 per fine ounce from the present level of $35 this summer, if the adjournment of Congress is not followed by a decided upturn in business. Consequently, inquiries for London gold futures have heavily increased here during the last few days.

Any buying of gold futures, it is pointed out, would be reflected by a flow of capital to Great Britain, since any bullion purchased by American interests must remain in London under the recent laws which require gold to be delivered to the United States Government at $35 per fine ounce.—Reuter.

Afforestation in Poland

The difficult task of re-afforestation of about 240,000 hectares in Poland has been completed in the course of eighteen years, according to a recent issue of the "Warsaw Weekly." This has resulted in the reduction from 9 per cent. to 3 per cent. of unwooded areas of the State Forests. When taking over the State Forests in 1919 the Administration of the Polish State Forests found 213,500 hectares of recent fellings left without re-afforestation, while another 20,000 hectares of forest had been devastated during the War. In the following eighteen years, the Administration successfully re-afforested these areas. It also felled timber on 476,684 hectares, and reafforestated a total of 669,069 hectares (1 hectare equals to 2.47 acres), a net gain of 192,385 hectares of afforestations over fellings.

Dow-Jones Summary

By Courtesy of Swan, Culbertson & Fritz

Omission of the United Corporation's preferred dividend seemed to halt a fairly substantial advance on the Stock Exchange today, in which demand was inspired by hopes of an early adjournment of Congress, together with implications of inflation in the Recovery Bill. Unfavourable factors today included: Steel operations being only one-tenth higher; FTC charges against leading farm machinery companies for monopolistic practices; and, the impaired technical position of the market. However, more big blank offerings are being anticipated, while investors are seeking high grade stocks.

By courtesy of E. Levy & Co.

The significance of this week's price changes was small, since they were mainly due to political factors: April gold desterilization, reduction in Reserve requirements and the Tax Bill revision; especially the last two which have the germs of a return of capitalistic confidence.

Utilities are possibly better able than other industries to protect earnings, and it is also still possible to believe that there be a modification of the Government attitude towards utilities.

Big crops are raising hopes for farm equipments and rails. The Relief Bill amendment relieved fears of the collapse of farm buying power. Despite Washington indifference the liquidation of rails is not important. The insolvency of New York Central Railroad and Southern Pacific during 1938 is not likely.

Copper and oil production curtailment reflects the absence of reliance on inflation. Production is still moving downward, with the worst approaching. The question remains whether this has been discounted yet.

There was Investment Trust buying of 3,000 United States Steel, while also 4,000 Kennecott were bought. Short selling of Chrysler and Dupont was generally seen.

Potential buying power was never greater, and we would disregard any pessimism which may be due,

Position of Rubber Today

Concluding Article Deals with Prospects of Consumption and Outlook for Shareholders

IN yesterday's article the rubber outlook was examined from the point of view of supplies. We must now consider the prospects on the consuming side; and in doing so we, perforce, leave the realm of exact knowledge for that of surmise. It is often said that America accounts for half the world's consumption of rubber and this is substantially borne out by the figures for the past few years. Ten years ago, however, she took nearly two-thirds so that her relative importance is tending to decline. The same point is brought out by a comparison of actual consumptions in 1927 and in 1937. In these ten years American demand increased from 373,000 tons to 543,000 tons, i.e. 170,000 tons or 46 per cent. while for all other countries together the increase is from 224,000 tons to 548,000 tons, that is, 324,000 tons or 144 per cent. Clearly, the use of rubber is expanding faster in other countries.

Another well-marked trend is for the proportion of rubber employed outside of tyre manufacture to enlarge as new uses are found for it. In the United States, rubber so absorbed has risen from 20 per cent. to 25 per cent. in the last five years. This decentralisation, so to speak, of consumption both geographically and industrially has been a continuing tendency since the early days when the demand was almost entirely dependent on the needs of the type manufacturers, and will strengthen and stabilize the structure of the industry. Together with the observed secular increase in consumption it is the best guarantee of the future of Rubber as a long-term investment.

Drop in U.S. Consumption

Coming more particularly to the present day, we find that the recent decline is most conspicuous in the United States whose share of the total consumption during each of the five last quarters has progressively decreased from 54 per cent. to 41 per cent. Comparing the first quarter of the present year with the corresponding period of 1937 we note a drop of 73,000 tons there and only 11,000 tons in all other countries. Great Britain has actually taken more this year and, surprising as it may seem, Germany, notwithstanding her efforts to achieve self-sufficiency and the widely-publicised production of Buna (synthetic rubber), has been obliged to buy more natural rubber than last year, in the face of a heavy import tax. War preparations are very possibly responsible for this, but it does suggest that the plantations have no reason to fear competition from the chemist for many years to come. Italy has also been a heavy buyer. On the other hand, the importation into countries actually engaged in war, Spain, China and Japan has been severely curtailed.

The violence and unprecedented character of the dislocation of business in the States may be illustrated by the fact that the records for the last decade show that in every year, not excluding the slump years, the first six months' consumption has been higher than in the last six months of the preceding year. This year will break the continuity as it will need a consumption of 119,000 tons in May/June to equal the last semi-annual period, an impossible achievement.

Since, therefore, almost the whole of the drop is due to America, the course of events there will determine the immediate future of the commodity. There is no really serious set-back elsewhere as yet.

Excessive Inventories

The recession in America has been largely attributed to excessive inventories built up at a time when prices were expected to go sky-high; and these redundant stocks have proved very difficult to liquidate. Nevertheless, stocks of tyres have been reduced by nearly 20 per cent. since the peak in the Spring last year. This has only been made possible by a drastic cut in production, which is now running at 60 per cent. of 1937 and lower than at any time in ten years. Similarly, the production of cars has been reduced to 60 per cent. of last year, less than at any time since 1934.

The equipment of new cars is more important to the industry nowadays than in the past; along with greater durability and reduced replacement demand, more and more rubber is going into the body of the car. The big manufacturers regulate their production to a large extent by their well-informed estimates of current requirements and the weekly cabled figures may usefully be watched for an indication of an impending change in the outlook. At present they offer no encouragement.

There is no reason to expect an early improvement in the United States. Conceivably, the Autumn may repeat the failure of the Spring to stage a revival, though the odds are against such a pessimistic view. The new spending programme is bound to begin to make its effect felt by then and the technical position should improve as stocks of raw and manufactured goods fall away. Every depression, in the capitalist system, bears within itself the seeds of ultimate recovery and all that governmental agencies can do is to hasten or retard it. It may be permissible to expect that the Administration will continue to find itself forced by the pressure of events to modify its injurious policies towards business.

Recovery Likely Slow

Nevertheless, it must be admitted that there is nothing in the visible facts to arouse optimism. Rapidly falling commodity price—indices, business activity still ebbing away and a stock market dangerously near the previous lows must give pause even to a hardened speculator. Only on the distant view can a good case be made out.

When recovery does come it would be unreasonable to expect a quick rise in the price of rubber for the consumer is in a very strong position to resist an advance. There are likely to be frequent reactions as surplus holdings come on the market and only when world stocks are once more at a lower than five months' ratio to consumption will rubber regain its high estate.

Prospects for Shares

For the time being, therefore, the outlook is not promising for the holder of rubber shares who must be prepared to see not only a cut in dividends but also the complete elimination of profits in companies with high production costs. All costs in any case will rise as production is further restricted. Labour cannot be turned off and on like a tap and overhead costs are more or less fixed. A smaller turn-over with rising costs is the near-term outlook. Fortunately, most Shanghai companies—not all—should be able to ride out the storm without actual loss at today's low prices, so investors need not feel unduly alarmed. Those who had the prudence to buy only low-cost producers are now getting their reward.

Even though good dividends are not in view, rubber shares are worth holding as the most dependable protection against the currency depreciation which is now in process here. While the effect of this depreciation on local industrial shares is open to debate, there can be no doubt that rubber shares, though expressed in Chinese currency, are an investment in an equity abroad and their real value cannot be affected by currency fluctuations. They are in the fortunate position of being able to sell their product in a sound and stable form of money and such dividends as may be earned will be distributed as a correspondingly larger sum of Chinese currency.

Polish Revenue and Expenditure

The revenue of the Polish Treasury for the first eleven months of the current fiscal year totalled 2,110,812,000 zlotys as against 1,960,614,000 zlotys for the corresponding period of the preceding year (increase: 7.66 per cent), according to a recent issue of the "Warsaw Weekly." A surplus of 15,349,000 was attained, the total expenditure being 2,095,463,000 zlotys (1,960,666,000 zl. for the same period of 1936/7). The yield of taxes and duties amounted to 1,229,598,000 zlotys (as against 1,104,458,000 zl.—an increase of 11.3 per cent) net payments to the Treasury by the State Monopolies came to 593,370,000 zlotys (as against 585,303,000 zl.: an increase of 1.37 per cent) the net receipts of the State enterprises came to 96,264,000 zlotys (as against 61,296,000 zl. an increase of 57.04 per cent). Administrative receipts amounted to 191,580,000 zlotys. Custom duties recorded the greatest rise—from 79,012,000 zlotys to 143,629,000 zlotys (increase: 81.78 per cent). The State Tobacco Monopoly paid in 301,504,000 zlotys, the Spirits Monopoly 220,744,000 zlotys.

Dollar Devaluation

Washington, June 6.

The various financial markets are rife with rumours today that the gold dollar will be devaluated in the very near future. However, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau reminded journalists of his declarations on this subject recently. It was only last week that he stated such rumours did not merit even a denial.

Meanwhile, it is noted that gold continues to flow into the United States, where it is creating credit possibilities already attaining record figures never before reached in the history of American finance.

Since the suppression of rules providing for the sterilization of excess gold, the Treasury has accumulated reserves of gold which are being kept instead of being sold to Federal Reserve Banks. It was the usual practice for the latter to purchase such stocks, issuing bonds in payment.

The Treasury has therefore decreased the bank note circulation in the country and has at its command enough gold to satisfy demands from abroad.—Havas.

"Deficiency of information in Japanese English-language newspapers is completed very successfully by an English newspaper in Kobe The Japan Chronicle . . on its pages can often be found criticisms of the political and economic actions of the Japanese Government and various other information which gives the opportunity to observe and to analyse the Japanese economic situation. In addition to the usual material obtainable from all the Japanese English-language newspapers. The Japan Chronicle gives a very detailed and comprehensive review of the foreign trade of Japan. It regularly prints statistics pertaining to Japanese exports and the state of the home market."—Extracts from U.S.S.R. Chamber of Commerce Journal.
